

Rosendale Sewerage—May Be a Switch

MAYOR CURRAN

By SHANE CROSBY

ROSENDALE
From Washington to Albany, officials waited today for the final word from the U. S. Corps of Engineers on what it will do in the village of Rosendale on the sewage line controversy.

Expectations are that the Corps will come to an agreement with the village to help finance a Main Street trunk line rather than reconstruct a system of direct dumping of raw sewage into the Rondout. At last report, Corps' officials in Manhattan, headquarters of the district comprising Rosendale, had passed their approval of the Main Street line on to higher headquarters and asked for a go-ahead sign. And, as of this morning, the office had not received a reply from its next higher office, the North Atlantic Division.

Although pollution from homes along the street has filled the Rondout for more than 100 years, Curran and his supporters contend it should end this year with the start on a sewage system with a treatment plant.

The Corps, saying it is controlled by legislation and funds, contended it could do nothing more than return the area to the way it was before the $3 million flood control project began. Agreement between the federal government and the village would mean the end to the direct pollution of the creek within a year, the mayor says.

The State Pure Waters Authority, state and county health officials, and officials in Washington including Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., have joined the mayor in the fight.

Special

The New York office has told the contractor, Servidone Construction, to bypass the sewage work and proceed on other aspects of the project until a reply is received. The office noted that once the contractor has finished all possible work around the sewage project, it would then have to ask for a go-ahead so as not to cause a complete work stoppage.

"We can not tell our higher headquarters to answer by such and such a date," said a high district official, "but we can tell them that it will cost more if they do not answer quickly."

The sewage controversy has boiled for more than two weeks since the Army revealed plans to install "headers" and continue pollution of the creek. Mayor William P. Curran and his engineers charged that such a plan would amount to "aiding and condoning pollution" and would be a "duplication of efforts and money" since the "headers" do not conform to a proposed village-town sewage plan.

Up until the start of the Labor Day weekend, the Corps had intended to install at least the "headers" in the Rondout Creek dike behind Main Street that would connect to homes along the street and take the waste directly through the dike and into the creek. Costs from $25,000 to $100,000 were placed on the plan and it was expected to be started later this week.

Over the first weekend of September, the village agreed on a list of terms it would go by in assisting the Corps in the construction of a Main Street trunk line. Mayor Curran said the assistance would save the Corps some 30 per cent in construction costs, relieving the contractor of some cases of litigation.

The Main Street line is given the advantage of being able to connect to planned sewage system that includes a treatment plant in the Creek Locks area. The "header" plan, charges Curran and his engineers, can not connect to the plant "as is" and would have either to be disconnected or included at a higher cost.

In a letter to Paul M. Sturges, president of the Delaware and Hudson Canal Historical Society that has involved itself in the pollution case, the acting chief of the New York District's Engineering Division said, "Please be assured that we are exploring every possibility with a view toward arriving at a solution which is agreeable to all concerned."

Dirksen Dead at 73

Nation Honors Republican Leader

WASHINGTON (AP) — Everett McKinley Dirksen, he of the tangled mane, the rumbling bass voice which could soothe or taunt or plead, is dead at 73, and the Senate is pausing in tribute to the man who for a decade was leader of its Republican minority.

At the peak of his power, during two Democratic administrations, the senator from Illinois fashioned that minority, and his own talent for oratory, drama and political maneuver, into a force which made him one of Washington's most influential figures.

Dirksen, ever the showman, was perhaps the best known of senators.

"He was an old pro," said Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, announcing the Senate would forgo business today to do honor to Dirksen, who died Sunday at Walter Reed Army Hospital, five days after an operation for lung cancer.

Medical announcements had indicated he was progressing toward recovery. But on Sunday, he suffered a cardiac and respiratory arrest. Two hours of efforts at resuscitation proved futile, and Dirksen died at 4:52 p.m. EDT.

President Nixon called Dirksen a giant in the history of Congress, a great American, a warm personal friend. "To politics and government he brought a dedication matched by few and a style and eloquence matched by no political leader in our time," the President said. "He had his greatest moments as the leader of the loyal opposition."

The White House said Nixon expects to attend the funeral. Mansfield said he hopes most of the Senate will, too.

The funeral is to be held at the National Presbyterian Church, and Dirksen's body is to lie in state for one day at the rotunda of the Capitol. He will be buried in his hometown, Pekin, Ill.

Members of Congress, officials and leaders of both parties joined in praising Dirksen and in expressing sympathy to his widow, his daughter, Danice, and his son-in-law, Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn.

Mansfield said as Democratic leader, he had enjoyed a perfect relationship with his Republican counterpart. "His word was good," Mansfield said. "Everything was on the table."

Former President Lyndon B. Johnson—who often found Dirksen a valued ally on the Senate floor—sent a private message of condolence to Mrs. Dirksen.

Dirksen, who was elected to his fourth Senate term less than a year ago, had suffered repeated illnesses, frequently requiring hospitalization. He blamed recurrent stomach and intestinal disturbances on tension. He also suffered from a bleeding ulcer, a pinched nerve in his back, and emphysema, a lung ailment.

He constantly puffed cigarettes, tried to quit but never succeeded, often borrowed a smoke from a colleague, an aide or a reporter.

It was when Johnson and the late John F. Kennedy were in the White House that Dirksen's power was at its pinnacle. Democratic presidents came to him seeking the votes they needed for key proposals.

Republican Nixon often turned to other Republicans—although Dirksen retained ample political muscle. Critics of them some of the Senate's younger, more liberal Republicans—accused Dirksen of obstructionism, and there was guarded attempt to displace the leader.

He was a key man in the passage of the sweeping Civil Rights Act of 1964, and again when Congress dealt with voting rights a year later. Those were the days when the Democratic White House sent emissaries to his ornate, office off the Senate floor, when the terms of crucial legislation were drafted beneath the crystal chandelier there.

All the while, however, his Republican oratory was undampened. As leading man of "The Ev and Charlie Show," the weekly news conferences with House GOP Leader Charles A. Halleck, he glibly at Democratic social programs.

Dirksen came out of Pekin, Ill., to the House of Representatives, winning his first term in 1932 and serving there for 16 years. He retired with eye trouble, so serious that specialists once advocated removal of an eye. But the eye improved. And in 1950 Dirksen ran for the Senate and, in an upset, defeated Scott Lucas, the Democratic leader.

EVERETT MCKINLEY DIRKSEN

(UPI TELEPHOTO)

Whenever He Spoke It Was Pure Americana

WASHINGTON (AP) — His language smacked of Shakespeare and the Bible and Victorian England, his delivery of William Jennings Bryan, his fervor of Billy Sunday.

His stage could have been the Chautauqua circuit and his product patent medicine. But he made it politics and when he spoke it was pure Americana, like the Fourth of July picnics of old in Pekin, Ill., where he grew up.

Everett McKinley Dirksen was an orator, a master at unrolling cubic yards of rhetoric at the slightest nudge. He was of the breed that went out with mustache cups and trolleys and shoes with hooks for laces.

He was the purveyor of the well-said put-down as well as the silky threads of praise. When Dirksen spoke, it flowed. It flowed.

"What strange doubts assail this timid generation of today as it beholds the challenges to both liberty and equality," he said once at Gettysburg on the 98th anniversary of Lincoln's address.

"We seem beset with fear not faith, with doubt not confidence, with compromise not conviction, with dismay not dedication. We are drenched with the literature of fear and doubt. Survival has become the main theme."

Early in the Eisenhower administration, Adlai Stevenson—the presidential candidate defeated in 1952—called the administration "dreary."

Everything about him added to the image. His face, florid and lumpy, could be sad, piteous, sly, melodramatic, startled—whatever punctuation his speech at the time demanded.

And always there was the hair—wispy, white, always looking as if he had just stepped from a speedy convertible.

"If you have some kind of trademark like unruly hair, people get to recognize you," he said.

Even when he was in the hospital—which was often—Dirksen managed to get in his thrusts. In 1964 he had missed a week of debate leading to a tax cut bill. His words were later relayed to the Senate.

"Perhaps you can imagine my bed-ridden amazement, my

Dirksen countered with: "Quite often Adlai has a sense of fitness in selecting his adjectives. Dreary is the word. It is no glamorous or dramatic adventure to cleanse the temple of government of its defilement, indicating grafters and boodlers of the 22 major scandals of the Truman administration . . . it goes forward with vigor even though it be a dreary job."

Even when he was in the hospital—which was often—Dirksen managed to get in his thrusts. In 1964 he had missed a week of debate leading to a tax cut bill. His words were later relayed to the Senate.

"Perhaps you can imagine my bed-ridden amazement, my pajama ruffled consternation, yes my pillow-laden astonishment this week, to learn that three Republican-sponsored proposals to assist in achieving laudable goals had been defeated by very narrow margins, victims of that new White House telephonic half-nelson known as the 'Texas twist.'"

Like a consummate actor, Dirksen used body English to accompany his stentorian, sonorous, mellifluous tones. In one speech there was mention of choreographer and the Senate was treated to the delightful sight of the portly Dirksen tip-toeing like a ballet dancer, twirling around the floor.

When he wanted to quiet a crowd, Dirksen would spread both hands in front of him, palms down, and gaze off into space as if communing with far-off, unseen spirits.

"Overemphasis," he explained, "reminds me of the preacher who sprinkled the margins of his sermon with instructions addressed to himself—cues like 'argument weak here; shout like hell.'"

Finger-pointing, he explained, should be held in reserve for special occasions. One such occasion was the 1952 GOP convention when he was backing Sen. Robert A. Taft for the presidential nomination while Thomas E. Dewey—twice defeated candidate—was pulling for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

From the rostrum, the Dirksen hand shot out, diamond glittering on one finger. Pointing straight at Dewey, Dirksen belted: "We followed you before and you took us down the road to defeat."

Dirksen spoke angrily about "the anarchy of mob conduct" in America and spoke about "the strange ferment and turbulence of today's youth."

BETHLEHEM (UPI) — Former Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike, who died in the Judean wilderness seeking the truth about Christ, was buried in the Holy Land he loved.

Pike's body was discovered Sunday by Israeli border guards at the foot of a 90-foot cliff, six days after he was reported missing in the desert where Jesus spent 40 nights fasting.

An autopsy today indicated Pike died of exhaustion six days ago.

He was buried at Saint Peter's Protestant Cemetery in Jaffa, her 56-year-old husband's last resting place. Pike's widow, Diana, and her brother, Richard Scott Kennedy, said they had consulted Pike's 84-year-old mother in California and other relatives about burial plans for the controversial churchman.

Mrs. Pike told newsmen earlier she hoped Pike would be buried in the Holy Land. "He loved the Israeli people and the Holy Land so deeply," she said.

"I feel there is no more appropriate place for him to die if he had to die."

Found Near Fortress
After Pike's body was found near the fortress of King Herod, the Great, Mrs. Pike recalled Jesus, whom he loved and

During the final years of World War II, Pike took up the Episcopal faith and was ordained to the priesthood in 1946. At that time he wrote a series of books defending orthodox Christian doctrines.

In the early 1960s, some Episcopal circles demanded Pike be brought to trial for heresy because of the radical theology he had then embraced. Episcopal leaders, dreading the sensation such a trial would produce, managed to head it off.

In 1968, after resigning as bishop, he quit the Episcopal church. Early this year he established a "foundation for religious transition" to assist clergymen quitting the ministry.

In addition to his widow, Pike is survived by three children, Catherine, Constance and Christopher, by his second wife.

One Dead, Three Injured in County Mishap

Edward G. Dietz, 17 of Springtown Road, New Paltz, operator of this car Saturday night on Rose Hill Road, Town of Rochester, was pronounced dead at the scene by County Coroner Arthur Chipp. He was thrown from the vehicle which overturned and was pinned underneath. Three other teenagers in the car were injured. Two were admitted to Benedictine Hospital. Ellenville state police said the driver lost control and after crossing the highway twice, ran off the left side and down an eight-foot embankment. (Freeman photo by Anner.)

Johnson Ford Lists Date For Display of New Models

KINGSTON—Johnson Ford, headquarters in Kingston for the 1970 line of Ford Division cars and trucks, will start displaying the new models on Sept. 19.

In addition to the all new Torino and Thunderbird lines, Ford offers a new ultra-luxury LTD Brougham series, a new mid-range engine, premium quality tires on most car lines, and more comfort, convenience, safety and security features, according to Ford Motor Company officials.

"The 1970 model year may become the first year in which the sale of intermediate-size cars catches or surpasses sales in the standard-size market," says John Naughton, Ford

Motors vice president and Ford Division general manager. "This may be the year of the intermediates and Torino is our most dramatically redesigned car, with longer, lower, and wider aerodynamic lines, hot performance engines and options, and our first intermediate-size four-door hard top models," Naughton says.

Thunderbird also has an all-new look, with a bold front-end design longer and lower hood, a forward thrusting grille and exposed headlamps.

More quiet luxury is offered in the standard-size Ford and the entire Ford line presents a more formal appearance with new grilles, ornamentation and rear-end design.

Mustang comes on stronger and sportier in 1970 with design changes and better engines, machine with very few familiar features of fuel Maverick, introduced in April, changes and Falcon moves economy, roomy interior, and will remain as the "simple into the 1970 market with the durable performance."

Taggart's appearance at Kingston Savings Bank coincides with the coming of Kingston of the "Clearwater," a full-scale replica of an old time Hudson River sloop, now making its maiden voyage to communities along the river. It will be anchored at Kingston from Friday to Sunday.

Floating Museum

The Clearwater was built for the Hudson River Sloop Restoration, Inc., a nonprofit group, and will be operated as a floating museum of Hudson River history and culture. The group also hopes to promote public awareness of the importance of pollution control on the river.

Exhibits aboard the vessel will include examples of typical cargo once carried by sloops as well as other displays about the Hudson Valley, past and present. Volunteer crews move the vessel along the river under the command of its full time Executive Director Taggart in captain, who might accompany his visit to Kingston Savings Bank Friday afternoon.

The Ulster County American Legion has come out in support of Alderman John P. Heitzman (D First Ward) in his attack against Pete Seeger, captain of the Sloop, Clearwater, currently sailing the Hudson River in a program to combat water pollution.

Heitzman, at the Sept. 2 meeting of the Common Council labeled Seeger, a well-known folk singer, as a "Communist" and urged residents of the community to boycott the Clearwater when it docks in Kingston next weekend.

County Commander Thomas Rizzo said today, "We Legionnaires of Ulster County have questioned the accolades bestowed on Pete Seeger, reportedly an individual with a long

Israeli Installations Hit by Bombs in 3 Cities

By United Press International

Bombs were thrown today at Israeli installations in Brussels, Bonn and The Hague.

Two persons were wounded in Brussels when two youths hurled a hand grenade into the Israeli El Al Airline office. The front of the building was destroyed by the noon blast. Two hand grenades were thrown at the rear of the Israeli Embassy in the Bonn suburb of Bad Godesberg at 11:35 a. m. An embassy spokesman said the explosions smashed four or five windows but no personal injuries were reported. The grenades apparently were thrown from a neighboring garden onto the embassy rear lawn.

In The Hague a hand grenade apparently aimed at the Israeli Embassy exploded on the door of an embassy residence next door. A guard quickly captured a teen-ager who had a second grenade in his pocket.

The Hague explosion occurred at the front door of the residence of First Secretary Shraga Tzur. It apparently was aimed at an open window of embassy spokesman Yaakov Yannay but missed.

Lindsay Prods Rocky Again for Session

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mayor John V. Lindsay has again asked Governor Rockefeller to call a special session of the legislature to deal with New York City's various financial crises.

In a letter to the governor revealed Saturday, Lindsay emphasized the crisis of the city's non-profit voluntary hospitals, but also said the legislature must deal with the crises in transportation and education.

Lindsay estimated the city would need about $170 million and he suggested that it come from state budget surpluses and from off-track betting, which he said should be authorized immediately.

Specifically, Lindsay asked Rockefeller to ask the legislature — which meets in special session this fall to deal with reapportionment — to take the following action:

—Lift the Medicaid rate freeze and authorize limited increases, retroactive to March 31.

—Take over one-quarter of the maintenance costs of the city's transit system in order to maintain the 20-cent fare.

—And restore the state share of the school lunch program and

Tyrrell Raps Ray Again on Budget Surplus

KINGSTON Republican Mayoral hopeful James J. Tyrrell has again charged the Garraghan administration with giving out "misleading information" in regards to the surplus in the 1968 budget.

Tyrrell has charged that the $19,453 surplus in the 1968 budget should have been used to reduce taxes in 1969 instead of 1970 as is reportedly anticipated by the administration.

Tyrrell said, "The present administration has raised taxes, they have given misleading information on added revenues, they have failed to tell the taxpayer, they have failed to tell each other the truth about revenues and they continue to operate with a surplus at the taxpayers expense."

Elbrick Captive Place Known, No Move for Fear of Death

By NELSON AIDUKAITIS
RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI)—

Brazilian authorities knew all along where terrorist kidnapers were holding U.S. Ambassador C. Burke Elbrick but made no move to rescue the envoy for fear he would be killed, a police official said today.

Shortly after Elbrick was freed unhurt from three days' captivity, intelligence agents Sunday raided the deserted mansion where they said terrorists had kept the ambassador hostage.

The official said Elbrick's captors had fled, leaving behind Communist propaganda, weapons and ammunition.

Elbrick was released Sunday by guerrillas who had held him for 76 hours to obtain freedom for 15 political prisoners of the Brazilian military regime.

Slight Cut On Head

The 61-year-old career diplomat, cut slightly on the head by a blow on the forehead but otherwise in good physical condition, arrived in a white taxi at his official residence.

Four hours earlier, a Brazilian air force C130 transport had arrived in Mexico City with the political prisoners, who were granted asylum there.

"To coin the understatement of the year, I'm glad to be back," Elbrick said. "They had no intention of harming me at any time."

Shortly after his return, Elbrick received a telephone call from President Nixon.

In Washington, Secretary of State William P. Rogers praised the Brazilian government and expressed thanks

Elbrick "has passed through this dreadful experience without harm."

The mansion where Elbrick was kept prisoner in a bare, 9-by-12-foot room is about a mile and a half from his residence and two miles from the residential street from where he was kidnapped.

A high police official said Brazilian authorities were counting on Elbrick to provide information to trigger a major crackdown on terrorism and subversion in Latin America's largest and most populous nation.

Most Serious Incident

The Elbrick affair was the most serious incident in the eight-day rule of the military junta which took power last Sunday after President Arthur da Costa e Silva, a 66-year-old retired army marshal, suffered a stroke.

The kidnapers identified themselves as members of the Movimento Revolucionario 8, a Communist group designated to commemorate the Oct. 8, 1967 execution in Bolivia of the Cuban revolutionary Ernesto "Che" Guevara.

An embassy spokesman said the kidnapers kept Elbrick guarded but treated him well, washing his shirt and giving him cigars.

Prior to freeing Elbrick, the spokesman said, the abductors taped his eyes and put dark glasses on him. They drove him from the place he had been held, transferred him to another car, dropped him off in the Tijuca District and warned him not to move for 15 minutes. The ambassador stripped off the blindfold almost immediately and found a taxi.

Troopers Solve Car Mystery

SAUGERTIES and unregistered motor vehicle

Kingston state police solved a mystery which continued for several hours Sunday when the identity of a missing driver was located after a futile search of the scene of a traffic mishap on Route 212 at Pine Grove early Sunday.

Troopers Norman Kilfoyle and Edward Zeboris on patrol about 5 a. m. Sunday on Route 212 came upon a badly demolished car among some trees on the right side of the highway. When the occupants of the car could not be found, the trooper called for assistance from Centerville Fire Company. The volunteers searched the area for nearly two hours but no driver or occupants were located.

Further investigation by Troopers Kilfoyle and Zeboris revealed the driver was Frank Miller 32 of Saugerties, who according to police report was only slightly injured and went home. Miller was issued summonses for unlicensed operator and unregistered motor vehicle

returnable Wednesday night before Town Justice Calvin Cody.

Fire apparently started by a bolt of lightning during a severe electrical storm Sunday night badly damaged an unoccupied frame dwelling on Houtman Road, Blue Mountain.

Centerville Fire Chief Thomas Brennan said the 1½ story home, owned by Mrs. J. Simington of Mineola, L.I., was badly damaged with the interior gutted and the blaze burned through the roof.

Centerville Captain Granville Myer said a neighbor of the summer resident felt the lightning bolt hit and when he saw the flames next door called in the alarm to Centerville Fire Department. All equipment of Centerville and Cedar Grove Fire Company responded.

U.S. Cancels B52 Strikes

SAIGON (UPI)—Without fanfare, the United States canceled B52 bomber strikes and cut back offensive sweeps during the three day Communist ceasefire that began today in honor of Ho Chi Minh.

Reliable sources made the disclosure but U.S. headquarters had no comment on it. Officially, the United States has followed South Vietnam's decision to ignore the Communist truce.

Military spokesmen reported nearly a dozen guerrilla violations of the cease-fire in the 14 hours after it began at 1 a.m. but called them "insignificant, comparatively speaking."

Three South Vietnamese were killed and 21 others were wounded, field reports said. At least three Americans died and 15 were wounded in Communist cease-fire violations.

The U.S. Command also has ordered all American artillerymen in the field to hold their fire unless fired upon, according to the sources.

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the U.S. commander, reserved the right to resume the B52 strikes, sweeps and artillery raids should the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese unleash significant attacks, they said.

South Vietnamese spokesmen said their troops had 50 "assorted" offensives under way today—actions the Viet Cong Liberation Radio had promised would be "severely punished."

Allied headquarters listed 11 Communist incidents in the first 14 hours of the truce—six shelling, two ground attacks, one sabotage incident, one propaganda foray and one kidnapping.

Two Americans were killed and five wounded this morning in an ambush 37 miles southwest of Da Nang, military spokesmen said. Losses among the attackers were not known.

In the same area, one U.S. Marine died and 10 suffered wounds in a 140-round Communist rocket and mortar attack that lasted until after 1 a.m., the command said. It was one of 34 shelling reported in the hours just before the stand-down.

New Soviet Pledge

U.S. Red Joins Ho's Mourners

TOKYO (UPI) — Mourners from 12 more nations, including the United States, flew into Hanoi today for Ho Chi Minh's funeral. Ho's successors won new pledges of full Soviet support for their war effort.

The Vietnam News Agency, in a dispatch from the North Vietnamese capital, said Gus Hall, secretary general of the U.S. Communist party, was among the arrivals this morning from Moscow.

Hall joined Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and other officials from the Communist bloc and non-Communist nations as well in mourning the death of the 79-year-old North Vietnamese president.

Kosygin laid a wreath at the foot of Ho's bier in Ba Dinh

Hall Sunday. On it was inscribed this pledge: "The Soviet people are firmly convinced that the Vietnamese people will obtain new victories in building socialism and in defending their homeland against imperialist aggression."

"In this endeavor, the Vietnamese people can always believe in the full support of the Communist party and government of the Soviet Union."

Later, the Soviet news agency Tass said, Kosygin met with the top leaders of North Vietnam to discuss the war and Moscow-Hanoi relations. Tass reported "an atmosphere of friendship and complete mutual understanding."

Moscow Radio earlier had criticized the Communist Chinese premier, Chou En-lai, for leaving Hanoi before Ho's funeral, scheduled for Wednesday. The broadcast called Chou's move "disrespectful" of Ho.

Chou's departure Friday before Kosygin arrived underscored the split between the two Communist giants, both of whom are reported jockeying for influence among the leadership council Ho left to govern North Vietnam.

Describes Long Lines

Broadcasts and news dispatches from Hanoi described long lines of North Vietnamese waiting to view Ho's body in Ba Dinh Hall. They said Ho's wreaths and the portraits to rubber sandals lay in a box at hang in their homes.

Nixon Keeps Close Tab on Vietnam

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—President Nixon, tanned and rested after a month-long working vacation in California, shut down the western White House today. The roundabout trip back to the damage caused by Hurricane Camille in Gulfport, Miss., Washington included dedication

The President and his party departed aboard Air Force One at 7:45 a.m. PDT for Del Rio, Texas, where he will spend the weekend for beginning delivery of 50 Phantom fighter bombers to Israel, calling the move an encouragement to alleged Israeli aggression.

Guests on hand for the luncheon at which the Mexican government will be host included Secretary of State and Mrs. William Rogers, Atty. Gen. and Mrs. John Mitchell and former Texas Gov. and Mrs. John Connally, as well as Gov. Preston Smith of Texas.

Following private talks with Diaz Ordaz, the Chief Executive flew to the Municipal Airport at Gulfport, Miss., for a meeting aboard Air Force One with Gov. John Bell Williams, Sens. James O. Eastland and John Stennis, and Rep. William Colmer.

The White House indicated Sunday it would go along with South Vietnam's rejection of the 72-hour truce proposed by the Viet Cong in memory of North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh.

Nixon remained in close contact with U.S. military authorities in Vietnam, including commanding Gen. Creighton Abrams.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler quoted President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam as saying "The Communists never have observed a truce" when he rejected their offer.

The entire Nixon family attended services Sunday at the United Presbyterian Church in San Clemente, to the surprise of the congregation of 250.

Emmanuel Gittel, the pastor, promptly invited Nixon to become a church member.

"This was a biggest thrill of my whole ministry—all 49 years of it," said Dr. Gittel, 79. "We didn't prepare any special messages. We did it the natural way, the way we do it every Sunday."

More Executions in Iraq; Called Israel, U.S. Spies

By United Press International

Iraq today executed three men—two civilians and an army private—as spies for Israel and the United States, Baghdad Radio said. A list of their names indicated none was a Jew.

The broadcast gave no details of the charges against Pvt. Mohammed Rabah Haidar, ambarkhud al-Karam and Amis Abbas. All were Iraqi nationals.

Today's executions brought to 54 the number of alleged spies Iraq has put to death this year, including 11 Jews. The two civilians were hanged and the soldier was shot at dawn, Baghdad Radio said.

Iraq, Syria and Egypt denounced the United States during the weekend for beginning delivery of 50 Phantom fighter bombers to Israel, calling the move an encouragement to alleged Israeli aggression.

"This action was directed against the safety and security of the Arab people," said an Egyptian government spokesman in Cairo. He called the delivery "direct participation by the U.S. in aggression against the Arab nations."

A Syrian Foreign Ministry statement warned the United States it would have to shoulder all the consequences.

In Tel Aviv, Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban said he hoped the United States would continue to be the main supplier of arms to Israel "in accordance with the policy she has pursued for many years."

Maj. Gen. Haim bar Lev, chief of staff of the Israel armed forces, told a radio audience in Tel Aviv Sunday night the Arab nations have Soviet advisers in their armies down to the battalion level.

Egyptian and Israeli forces fought two skirmishes along the Suez Canal Sunday with neither side reporting casualties.

Spokesmen in Tel Aviv said an Arab guerrilla grenade wrecked a car in the Gaza Strip.

Bloodshed in North Ireland, Man Killed, Another Wounded

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Gunfire from a speeding car killed one man and wounded another today in the latest outbreak of violence in Northern Ireland's Roman Catholic-Protestant conflict.

A Protestant underground radio broadcast said the dead man was a Protestant and urged its listeners to rally in force at their barricades. Police said the victim was Jack Todd, 23, whose religion was not known.

British troops, shouldering bayoneted rifles and with tear gas grenades strapped to their uniforms, sped to the shooting scene, on Alloo Street in one of the city's Protestant sections.

An army spokesman said the men were shot from a speeding car while a shop in the area was being looted.

Feeling Runs High

"Feeling is running high," the spokesman said. "The feeling seems to be that this was the work of Catholics—although we don't even know the religion of the man who was killed."

West Belfast looked like a city under siege. Bands of Protestants and Catholics milled behind their respective barricades which army units have been trying to persuade them to take down.

Where there were no barricades, the army had stretched barbed wire barriers of their own to keep the Protestants and Catholics apart.

The death today brought to nine the number killed since sectarian violence broke into the open last month. Eight were killed in Belfast and one in Armagh.

Several Firebomb Attacks

During the night there were several firebomb attacks. One pub was set ablaze by a gasoline bomb.

A police spokesman said three gasoline bombs were found outside the shop where the shots were fired.

Army troops set up machine gun posts Sunday night after an underground radio broadcast repeated appeals to Protestants to attack the Roman Catholic quarters.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, SEPTEMBER 8, 1969

Less Postwar Surplus

For several years, leading economists have argued whether there would be a peace and growth dividend to the federal treasury when the war in Vietnam ends, and the $30 billion annual war outlay stops. The Urban Affairs Council, a new advisory in the Nixon Administration, looked for this surplus to finance such social programs as help to the poor, improvement in education, mass transportation innovations and rebuilding the cities.

Immediately after he took office, President Nixon directed Herbert Stein, a member of the Council of Economic Advisers, to make a study of what the economic consequences of the peace might be. The study covers the five-year period to June 30, 1975.

There would be substantially larger funds as a result of the war's end and as a result of the natural growth of the economy. But built-in costs—programs with ever mounting future costs as provided by Congress plus new Nixon programs plus some rise in prices—would eat up the savings, Stein found.

Daniel P. Moynihan, executive director of the Urban Council, who made the announcement for the President, said that the "peace dividend turned out to be evanescent, like the morning clouds." Nixon's revenue-sharing program with the states will cost $5 billion in 5 years, his family assistance program $4.2 billion the first year and his transportation proposals $10 billion over 12 years. And Congress has some expensive programs of its own on the griddle.

Like so many of us these days, the Government has spent or plans to spend all it expects to get and more, long before it gets it.

Secret Service Duty

What with three political assassinations in the last six years—President John F. Kennedy, Senator Robert F. Kennedy and Martin Luther King—the Secret Service is shedding some of its peripheral duties to concentrate on the main task of safeguarding the President and tracking counterfeiters.

The President's safety is a round-the-clock job 365 days a year. It involves screening those who threaten the President as well as those who might act on the threats. It also covers all members of his immediate family, as well as the Vice President. The deep divisions in the nation, the agitation and recrimination, the anger and hate, the aroused passions all are possible incubators of misdirected potential assassins. The danger is constant and cannot be discounted.

The Secret Service, a branch of the Treasury Department, also is responsible for policing counterfeiting in the country. This task it will continue. But such functions as policing stamp and change machines in post offices for nickel and dime cheaters is getting too time-consuming. It has been turned over to postal inspectors, who may be there on the job anyway. In any case, they will relieve the Secret Service.

Safeguarding the President is a big job these days. The Secret Service's concentration on this task should reassure the nation.

Dr. B. N. Petrov, chairman of the Soviet Academy's committee on exploration and utilization of space, reported at a meeting in Tokyo that the Soviet Union has developed and test flown two nuclear-powered rockets. Isn't this a violation of the nuclear limitation treaty? The test was made for military purposes, forbidden by the treaty ban.

When two physicians hijacked a United Arab Airlines plane flying from Cairo to Mecca, Saudi Arabia returned the plane with the physicians to Cairo. There a military tribunal sentenced one doctor to life imprisonment and the other to seven years. Harsh but effective treatment.

South Africa has refused a visa to Rep. Ogden R. Reid, New York Republican, because he was to deliver a speech to university students at Johannesburg opposed to the government's apartheid policy. The State Department has protested, but a sovereign state has the right to protect itself against strangers interfering in its domestic affairs.

There are 50,000 U.S. troops in Thailand. Since so much has been said in Congress about American commitments to fight in Thailand, talks that have begun for a graduated reduction should quiet these apprehensions. Withdrawals will depend on the security situation in Southeast Asia.

Until now, the Post Office has supplied the correct Army Post Office (APO) number for mail bound for men in the armed services if it was omitted or in error. Hereafter mail that is improperly addressed will be returned to the sender. It will be his responsibility to supply a correct address, as it is too costly for the postal service to continue this big task.

David Lawrence Says Combating Violence Is Up to Local Government

WASHINGTON — Within the last few days, riots have broken out in a number of American cities. It is a recurrence of the wave of violence that has swept the country in recent years. A number of fatalities have resulted.

This week in Hartford, Conn., there was disorder for the second time in less than three months, gangs again looted and burned scores of businesses as they did in early June.

In Fort Lauderdale, Fla., violence erupted, and police units were moved in to try to stop the sniping, vandalism and arson. One Negro businessman, surveying the wreckage of his store, said: "We are Negroes — why would they want to get us?" The disturbances continued for three days.

Similar outbreaks, involving shooting, rock-throwing and the tossing of firebombs, were reported this week in Dayton, Ohio, Parkersburg, Pa., Camden, N.J. and Charlotte, N.C.

There seems to be an erroneous impression generally that all this, as well as campus disorders, can be stopped only by the federal government. Just the other day, one news publication expressed the opinion that Attorney General Mitchell is "Mr. Law-and-Order." Put this doesn't happen to be the case. The Attorney General, in an interview a month ago in another publication, said: "This biggest problem in the country is crime in the streets — and how to get at it. Basically, as you know, street crime is outside the jurisdiction of the federal government."

The federal government can arrest persons who conspire to produce violence or engage in racketeering across state lines, but it can't patrol the streets with troops unless requested to do so by the governor of a state. Mr. Mitchell added:

"I don't believe the federal government...should have a national police force."

Thus the main responsibility still rests with the states, cities and counties. The chief weapon of the national government against "crime in the streets," as set up by a 1968 statute, is the "law enforcement assistance administration." Funds are granted to the states by the federal government to upgrade law enforcement through modern equipment, the training of police, and new methods of apprehending criminals.

Mr. Mitchell also has declared that legislation to give the federal government a more active role in enforcing local anticrime laws is not necessary. He feels that the job is really up to the governors, mayors and heads of local governments throughout the country.

Racial clashes nowadays are frequent, and it is believed that they are often instigated to produce disorder, during which looting of stores can be carried on. The basic objective frequently is to steal merchandise and get money to purchase drugs. This also motivates many robberies of individuals and homes.

President Nixon during his campaign last year placed emphasis on the issue of law and order. But the intention was not to take over the responsibilities of local governments. Rather the idea was to help local law enforcement through money or crime-detection facilities and training.

The most common street crimes in America today are murder, assault, robbery, burglary, larceny and rape, and the states and cities must master the problem of "crime in the street." If they need money, the federal government can render assistance.

The responsibility for preserving law and order, however, remains in the states. There is no official in the federal government who can bring about "law and order" in the United States. Nor can the problem, which has been too long neglected, be solved by attempting to shift the responsibility away from the states.

The Constitution limits the jurisdiction of the federal government as to crime. Federal laws provide for prosecution in cases of counterfeiting, bribery of federal officials, espionage, treason and certain crimes carried on across state lines. Combating violence and disorder, however, on the streets of the cities is still primarily the responsibility of state and local governments.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The Gourmet Room was properly dimmed. The captains at El Casino on Grand Bahama Island served Steak Diane by the karat. Mr. Nicolas Blair, a classy gentleman with round, sunny face and gray, wavy hair, stopped studying his gleaming fingernails and shot his cuffs. "You knew Feet Edson," he said elegantly. "A bum all the way."

He smiled forgivingly at a waiter. "Watch," said Mr. Blair, "how you pour the hollandaise on the broccolini. Dummy!" I asked Blair about Feet Edson. "Feet," he said, "had lousy feet. He was on crutches every day of his life. He thought about getting them taken off — seen' as they did no good for anybody — but he was afraid his ankles would fray."

"A moocher," I said, trying to remember. Mr. Blair placed an ounce of steak on the good side of his teeth, and nodded. "A guy that would hook your glass eye," he said. "Me and him went into the gin business in the days of Prohibition. We stole a few dozen gin labels and pasted them on our bottles."

"Then we rented a little flat. Second floor up. We don't know it, but there's a snob on the third floor making gin and selling like a bandit." "Competition," I said. "Naturally," he said. "But we used to buy old London newspapers and wrap our fresh gin in it and then take it down to the Hudson River and soak it a little."

"We had a few customers who would pay the freight for imported stuff, so we cleaned up. One day a guy knocks out our door and says: 'Is this bad thing. When nobody is looking, he runs over to Mrs. Madden's place and he limps upstairs, so I open the door wide and bow him in."

"Turns out he's a Fed and Feet figures. She tears up a corner of a thin carpet and takes out 500. 'Help my boy!' she cries. 'Do anything you can for him. I'll stay here and say the rosary.'"

"Well, Owey is in no trouble. He owns Manhattan. Feet Edson is in trouble. He takes the five C's and spends it. When it's gone, he remembers the source and runs back to Mrs. Madden with a sad story about the cops and Owey. This time she tears up another piece of rug and gives Feet 2,500 hundred clams."

"I'm not sure, but I think I just opened a little club in Greenwich Village when Owey Madden caught up with Feet Edson. The boss and his boys escorted Feet to a black automobile. It's a one-car funeral, understand? And Owey gets in the back with Feet Edson because it happened to his mother and he wants to do the job himself."

Mr. Blair snapped his fingers. "Take this away," he said to the waiter. "And bring me some Cherries Jubilee." "They shot Feet," I said. "So it seems," Mr. Blair said. "The torpedoes wait around Lindy's for Owey to come back and when he does he looks mad. His head is down. Someone said: 'How'd it go, Boss?' And Owey says: 'I take this guy out to kill him for what he did to my poor old mother, and he cries his way out of it.'"

"On the way back," Owey says, 'the bum talks me out of $500.' Mr. Nicolas Blair shrugged. "The moral is," he said, "never trust a guy who understands his mothers'..."

Jack Anderson Says Jackie Carefully Maintains Ties With the Kennedy Family

WASHINGTON — One of the few persons to penetrate the wall that the Kennedys have thrown up around Ted since his accident is his former sister-in-law, Jackie Onassis.

Soon after the tragedy, the former First Lady reached Senator Ted Kennedy by overseas telephone and expressed her deep sorrow. She couldn't have been more gracious, says intimates. She also telephoned his brother-in-law, Steve Smith, who serves as business manager for the clan, to ask whether there was anything she could do.

That's the way it has been with Jackie since she married Greek shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis. She has carefully maintained her ties with the Kennedy family. Rose Kennedy, for example, spent the Easter holiday as Jackie's guest aboard the Onassis yacht Christina. Afterward, Jackie sent the family matriarch some books on Greek history and invited her to come to Greece for a visit.

But if the relationship between Jackie and her former family seems warm, intimates say it is the its isn't. Jackie always resisted the suffocating embrace of the clan even while she was its most illustrious in-law. She didn't like the one-for-all-and-all-for-one spirit that encroached on her independence.

Queen Jacqueline

Now a tinge of aloofness is manifest in her independence. For despite the surface sweetness and seeming closeness, say intimates, Jackie takes a quiet satisfaction in having escaped the Kennedy hold. Sometimes she gives the Kennedys the impression that she feels above and beyond them.

Jackie's former sisters-in-law used to refer to her teasingly as "the Queen," because of her regal manner and her constant awareness of the effect she creates. Today, she is still "the Queen," who lives as royally, dresses as dazzlingly and entertains as extravagantly as any monarch.

Since her marriage last October, she has been on a glorious spending spree. She walks into any store of her choosing, helps herself to whatever she wants and strolls off, trailed by servants burdened down with bundles. She pays no cash, signs no bills. Her face is her credit card. Store owners, recognizing the famous lady, realize that Aristotle will make good.

She buys $1,000 and $2,000 gowns by the dozen. Her collection of furs is fabulous. Her jewelry, by one estimate, is worth a cool $5 million.

She has also traveled the world over, living for short periods in various villas and apartments in Athens, Paris, Buenos Aires, Montevideo, Monte Carlo, New York and her favorite island retreat of Skorpios.

The villa on Skorpios was furnished by Onassis's former love, opera star Maria Callas, at a reported cost of $500,000. Jackie decided to throw all Maria's expensive furniture out and is flying in her own selections from as far away as New York City.

When Jackie jets across the oceans, she always buys four tickets because she doesn't like to have people sitting near her. Even though her husband owns Olympic Airways, she prefers Pan American. She also likes to cruise on the Christina, a veritable sea castle, which is usually overflowing with the Beautiful People.

Jackie's Spending

Since Jackie and the children no longer are eligible for Secret Service protection, Onassis has hired Pinkerton guards at a cost of $1,200 a week to follow her wherever she goes.

How much has it cost Onassis to be married to the widow of the late President Kennedy and number one catch in the world? News sleuth Fred Sparks, a Pulitzer Prize winner, has carefully traced their spending since the marriage. He calculates that the marriage, thus far, has cost Ari an astounding $20 million.

During their courtship, he sent Jackie a bouquet of flowers every other week from May until October. With each bouquet came a gold or diamond bracelet — trinkets that cost him an estimated $130,000 before he landed the world's most exclusive lady. For a wedding gift, he gave her a 40-karat diamond worth close to $1 million.

Insiders say the Onassis are quite happy. Jackie managed to spend only about $125,000 on herself during her marriage to the late President Kennedy. She positively delights now in being able to buy anything she wants, including the stores. And Ari doesn't seem to mind her fabulous spending.

Only the children, apparently, preferred life with the Kennedys, and sometimes seem to resent their new stepfather. Jackie is aware of her children's feelings, but depends on Papa's pocketbooks to assuage the pain.

Note: Incidentally, intimates insist that Jackie is not pregnant, despite recent pictures of her in a dress that had a maternity look.

Nixon on the Spot

North Korea put President Nixon on the spot by demanding a written apology before the three downed helicopter crewmen will be returned.

During the 1968 election campaign, Nixon denounced then-President Johnson for issuing a similar apology in order to get the 81 Pueblo crewmen back. Nixon promised that he would never permit the United States to get into such an embarrassing position again.

Now the president must either eat his words or leave three Americans to suffer in a North Korean prison.

Don't Blame 'The System'

Key to Age's Dilemmas? You!

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The critics and would-be reformers of American society — not to mention its would-be destroyers — find rich grounds for complaint in the impersonality which has blanketed life in this era of vast corporate and bureaucratic bigness. But the impersonality is blamed for too much.

If automobile safety is the issue, Ralph Nader's Raiders manage to suggest that responsibility for our frightening highway death tolls lies almost wholly with the corporate motoring giants in Detroit.

If air and water pollution are the issue, again nearly the entire load of blame is laid upon the impersonal corporation or, in occasional circumstances, the government's military emplacements near lakes and rivers.

Crusty college administrators are blamed for the seeming inhumanity which has engulfed universities as they have grown massively into "multiversities."

Cities are held peculiarly responsible for major aspects of poverty and the increasingly bitter racial struggle which scars this country's life today.

For these and many other problems, state and federal bureaucracies are judged similarly responsible. Their "cold and heartless" agents are pictured as sitting in their unreachable cubbyholes, indifferent to human concerns, safe in their incompetence.

Unhappily for the critics and attackers, this version of what ails American society is just too neat and comfortable. It leaves totally out of account the American individual, who is free to do both good and bad things than he has ever been before.

Stand at the edge of a great lake and watch the oil slick and the empty beer cans float in. Corporate wastes and the carelessness of the corporate worker? No. In this instance, as in many others like it, the oil slick is the product of dozens of gasoline-powered pleasure boats weaving about offshore. And the beer cans from the hands of the relaxed citizens on board.

Ride the open highways. "Detroit" is not at the wheels of the throbbing vehicles as they pound along the unfolding concrete. The drivers are not the faceless agents of corporate impersonality, but the individuals who are supposed to be the cruel victims of that affliction. If you photographed their driving maneuvers, the pictorial catalogue of their mistakes in judgment might shock even Ralph Nader. The wonder is that so few die.

The cities, the states and the federal government surely do have heavy responsibility to promote policies which will help conquer poverty, racial discrimination and related problems. But the dilemma of the troubled "inner city" today is in considerable part the product of millions of individual choices, as people in unwinding rural circumstances opt for the move to the "urban opportunity."

The universities? Twenty years or more ago, when they were already big and far more "impersonal" than the tunnel-visioned young of today bothered to discover, the great goal was to make the schools the gathering place for millions then unable to attend.

The "wicked system" now provides the money for the fulfillment of that goal. Individuals who three decades ago would have been working at their young age today flood the colleges. Their numbers spell bigness on the campuses — and give rise to the complaint that everything is too huge and impersonal.

The trouble with what might be called the "Nader syndrome" is, then, that it takes the individual American completely off the hook. Whatever is wrong — highway fatalities, pollution, poverty, discrimination, overcrowded schools — is the fault of immense impersonal forces operating somehow outside the human framework and "against the people."

The truth is that we are all responsible for the dilemmas of this age. The assault on "the system" is a massive copout. It frees the ordinary American, young or old, of responsibility for the compounding individual errors which contribute so heavily to the great problems we face.

Moreover, the assault is misleading. The errors within "the system" are also individual human mistakes. If the critics and attackers suddenly replaced the "faceless agents" of corporation and bureaucracy, they would commit at least as many mistakes and possibly more.

The impersonality of life is not just an affliction to be genuinely deplored. It is a shield for soft-fibered people, a way of hiding from the human frailties which mark us all, of dodging the tough work of real human betterment.

Convention Reform Is Eyed By the Democratic Governors

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent
COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (NEA) — At least three simple Democratic party reforms may soon be on their way to general adoption, but few Democratic governors here believe that these or any other changes will do much to heal the widened factional breaches in their party.

One informed Democratic governor says the McGovern Committee on Reform of National Convention Delegate Selection probably will recommend, as fundamentals, these propositions:

- That no part of the delegate selection process be initiated before January of a presidential year—to answer criticisms that, in the past, the choosing of representatives has begun so early in some states that they did not reflect the popular mood at nominating time.

- That the basic meeting in each state—whether precinct caucus or county or district convention—be entirely open to the citizenry to allow their participation in the selection process.

- That the actual choosing of delegates be wholly by democratic method, with no arbitrary picking of honorary, ex-officio or other special representatives to the convention.

Democratic governors sampled at this 61st National Governors' Conference foresee no problem at all in gaining widespread party support for doing the delegate choosing only in the presidential year itself.

The other proposals, if they do indeed materialize in the McGovern committee's report expected some time this fall, may prove more troublesome.

Sen. Harold Hughes of Iowa, a committee member, already has suggested that the committee may offer a proviso designed to assure at least minimum representation of blacks, Mexican-Americans, the young and any other significant minorities on delegations.

He says committee inquiries indicate that wholly democratic selection methods would in some places swamp out these minorities and leave them unrepresented.

Some Democratic governors here agree with this judgment and some do not. It seems clear, in any event, that the basic commitment will be to "democratic method."

Though no queried governor quarreled with the idea that in each state the party's "basic meeting" starting the selection process should be open to all who wish to participate, some feel that this proposal—even if universally adopted—will not cure all the ills.

Governors like Kenneth Curtis of Maine, Warren Hearnes of Missouri and John Burns of Hawaii argue that the problem is not the denial of participation (as ardent liberals insist) but chronic apathy on the part of the citizenry. Says Hearnes:

"In 1968, we had to call up people and urge them hard to get out to the meetings. It is difficult to stir their interest at an early stage and at the lowest levels of the selection process." Hearnes and Curtis point out, further, that any group with energy and dedication in pursuit of a particular candidate or cause can flood precinct or other low-level gatherings and assure representatives committed to the group's position.

On the surface this may look fair enough, but these governors raise the question whether delegates so chosen are truly representative of the local areas where such selection takes place. The flood-out technique has a bulldozing aspect to it.

The democratic governors for the most part, fear that such domination by dedicated pursuers of causes is exactly what the party's arch liberals want from "reform."

From this follows their conviction that no genuinely balanced proposals of reform will really satisfy the doctrinaire types or bring them back into a unified party fold.

N. Y. City Night Life: Food, Girls Are Tops

By GEORGE GALLUP
PRINCETON, N.J. — New

York City may have its detractors, but for the typical American citizen it is the "most interesting" of the nation's large cities, as well as the city with the "gayest night life," the "best food," and the "best-looking women."

These are the opinions of men and women alike, young and old, and persons living in all four major regions of the nation.

New York City did not acquire its reputation as "most interesting" city only recently. A Gallup survey as early as 1950 gave it top billing in this category.

A 45-year old man from New England sees New York as a "vital city, with an intriguing mixture of ethnic groups." Another respondent commented, "New York's got everything—from opera to Go-Go girls."

A young midwestern homeowner remarked, "They never roll up the sidewalks in New York."

New York City is the top choice of the nation's adults in the choice of the city's reputation, but four out of six categories.

Following are the top five choices for each category

(ranked by frequency of mention), and cities chosen often enough to be included under "honorable mention."

Frisco Gets High Ratings

San Francisco rates high in all categories and is just behind New York in overall popularity.

A Canton, Ohio, executive said, "San Francisco has a magic quality to it. I love the hills the cable cars, and all the rest."

"A swinging, cosmopolitan town," was the comment of a 21-year old Michigan housewife.

Survey was Nationwide

A special nationwide Gallup survey was carried out July 11 through 14 in which a carefully selected sample of 1517 adults were asked the following questions:

From what you have heard or read, which LARGE city has the gayest night life? Has the best-looking women? The best food? The most beautiful setting? Is the most interesting or different? Is the healthiest?

The answers recorded in this survey naturally do not represent the final authority on which cities are best in the various categories, but people's impressions do help to determine a city's reputation.

Following are the top five choices for each category

The Gay Night Life?

1. New York City
2. Las Vegas
3. San Francisco
4. Los Angeles
5. Chicago

Honorable Mention: Miami, New Orleans, Reno.

Kingston Jehovah Witnesses Going to Troy Convention

HURLEY—The Kingston congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses will attend a three-day circuit convention to be held at the R.P.I. Field House in Troy, Sept. 12-14.

Ernest Kidd of Hurley, presiding minister for Kingston area announced that the congregation will be joining over 1,200 delegates from 16 congregations of Jehovah's Witnesses in mid-eastern New York State.

According to Kidd, the convention theme will be Right Kind of Ministers. The three-day program will consist of Bible lectures, symposiums, stage dramatizations depicting teaching techniques to be used by delegates upon returning home, and participation by the Kingston congregation in the door to door ministry in Troy.

Speakers on the program will include delegates from seven of the 16 congregations to be represented. Members of the Kingston congregation appointed to head departments in the convention organization were Richard Dykstra of Boiceville and Kidd.

Principal talks will be delivered by Harry A. Fetzik, district minister of Jehovah's Witnesses and by Royal P. Loving, Circuit Minister, both from the Watchtower Society's world headquarters in Brooklyn.

A special feature of the program will explain tested solutions to local problems and deal with how to ward off religious apathy within the family circle, replacing it with a scriptural foundation for Christian works by all family members.

The assembly will end Sept. 14 when Fetzik delivers the Sunday public lecture, True Worship Versus the False. Kidd said that the congregation's usual weekend schedule of meetings and ministry locally will be cancelled so that all can attend the Troy assembly.

LONDON (UPI)—Black militant Robert F. Williams, wanted in the United States on a kidnapping charge and banned from flying on U.S. airlines, packed today to leave on the only flight open to him—a return trip to Cairo.

Williams, who has spent the past three days in Pentonville Prison as an undesirable alien to Britain, was scheduled to fly back to Cairo on a United Arab Airlines flight.

Williams calls himself president of the Black Separatist Republic of New Africa. He arrived on a United Arab Airlines flight from Cairo Friday and tried to catch a flight to Detroit.

A British Home Office spokesman said Trans World Airlines (TWA) had refused to later.

Dutchess BOCES Strike Averted

An eleven-hour contract settlement was reached early today between teachers and the Dutchess County Board of Cooperative Educational Services, averting a possible strike in the Poughkeepsie area.

John Donoghue, chief negotiator for the school board, said the contract provided for a starting salary of $7,100 and a maximum of $12,760 in 18 steps.

The 1 a.m. agreement was submitted to an emergency meeting of the faculty six hours later. A contract deadline was set for 8:30, Noel Tepper, chief faculty negotiator, said.

Tepper said the teachers approved the contract proposal unanimously and reported to their classrooms. They had been working since Thursday without a contract.

Due to the lack of registration, the driver education class scheduled tonight and Tuesday at Rondout Valley High School has been canceled.

LWV Compiles New Edition of Voters' Guide

SAUGERTIES—Recent party caucuses throughout Ulster County have signaled an upsurge of political activity which will continue through Election Day. But local politicians and their supporters won't be the only ones embroiled in frenzied activity from now until Nov. 4.

According to Freida Allen of the League of Women Voters, the voters service chairmen of the four Ulster County Leagues of Women Voters are efficiently gathering information for the annual "Voters' Guide" and for press releases to encourage county residents to register and to vote, she explained. Then there are the candidates' rights to be planned and the copies of "Facts for Voters," a statewide league publication, to be distributed. League members will hand out voting information at local shopping centers.

At a recent meeting, the four voters service chairmen, Mrs. Robert Kraft of Saugerties, Mrs. Santo Cali of Woodstock, Mrs. Connors of New Paltz and Mrs. J. R. Moss of Kingston coordinated their leagues' pre-election activities.

Many voters service activities are closely concerned with elections, but in addition the league undertakes educational work to provide the citizen with an understanding of the structure and operation of government, and particularly the role of the political parties—how they function, and the opportunities for party work.

Voters service provides factual information on candidates and on issues. It does not function to promote league program.

New Expert Needed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A new kind of expert who might be called a "social engineer" is needed to cope with problems in the nation's cities, according to a report submitted to the Department of Housing and Urban Development. The report said there are sufficient experts who can advise on how to take care of the physical needs of the city, but few that can deal with urban social processes such as population shifts and racial attitudes.

Investigate Loan Losses In Florida Poverty Aid Plant

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commerce Department has dispatched an investigator to Florida to examine the causes of a record multimillion-dollar loss on a government loan intended to create jobs in a poverty area. "We're checking it out," said Jack Beddow, chief counsel of the Economic Development Administration, an arm of the Commerce Department. "I sent a lawyer down to Florida to look at the records."

Over a six-year period, the government invested a total of $5.4 million in Coastal Products Inc., which got the aid to build and operate a wood products plant at Blountstown, in Florida's Panhandle.

The factory, to provide 150 jobs, was in operation less than two years. When Coastal Products filed for bankruptcy, the government foreclosed, then sold the idled plant this summer to another firm for $3.1 million.

The $2.3 million loss, according to a survey of loan-granting agencies, is the largest ever on a federal loan to private enterprise in the United States.

The EDA is a successor to the Area Redevelopment Administration, established in the early years of the Kennedy administration to spur economic development in rural areas.

The initial Coastal Products aid was a $2.8 million ARA loan arranged with the help of Rep. Don Fuqua, D-Fla., whose district includes Blountstown.

Fuqua said he pressed for government approval of the Coastal Products loan because some of his constituents had invested in the plant. The congressman himself had purchased $1,000 stock in an industrial development corporation which joined the government in financing the factory.

"Looking back," Fuqua said in an interview, "I would have checked into it more than I did. Hindsight's 20-20."

At the Commerce Department, a similar view is expressed. "In hindsight, we should have done some things differently," one official said.

Coastal Products was in financial trouble almost from the start. It quickly ran into a working capital squeeze, had difficulty finding trained employees and bought expensive machinery found to be inadequate.

When the firm fell behind on its interest payments on the first loan, the government responded by pouring in more money hoping to rescue its initial investment.

As a condition for the original loan, the government had insisted Coastal Products give it, as collateral, liens on 2,800 acres of land the company owned in Florida. Yet before loan funds left Washington, the government released the liens.

Accepting Invitations Without

Reciprocating
DEAR MRS. POST: Is it right to refuse an invitation from a "well-to-do" person (usually a close relative) on grounds that you cannot return the invitation because you can't afford it? Would a hostess gift suffice? Is there some nice way to deal with such situations? — Mona.

Dear Mona: Very often older people-aunts, cousins, or even friends of a couple's parents-invite the young people for a meal or a party. Knowing that they are better off, they do not expect to be repaid in kind. It is not wrong of the younger ones to accept a number of these invitations as long as they are not issued too frequently. A hostess gift would be in order after two or three visits with a note — "we have enjoyed the wonderful evenings at your house so much".... Also, you need not repay an invitation with one of the same kind. The older people might be entertained just for cocktails, or dessert and coffee or at a picnic-which they would

Marriage Moments Kept for Children

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a widower with three children and will be getting married soon to a girl who has never been married before. What should I do with the wedding albums from my first marriage? My children are teenagers. — Bob P.

Dear Mr. P: Your wedding albums from your first marriage should be kept for your children's sake. They should be carefully put away in a safe place, where they will not cause your new wife any unhappiness, and brought out only when the children wish to see them.

Honest Answer Easier in the End

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I are separating. My sister's daughter is getting married in December. People I will see there know that I am married and have two children. When asked by friends, "Where is your husband," what do I answer? I haven't seen some of them in years.—Agnes.

Dear Agnes: Just come out with it. Say, "I'm sorry to say we've been separated since July." It is embarrassing, I know, but it is better to have it over with than to try to make excuses, or cover up.

MRS. EUGENE A. NATOLI
(Lakeside Studio)

Miss Paula Angela Coluccio, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Coluccio of 613 Myrtle Avenue, Albany, exchanged nuptial vows with Robert A. Gillen, son of Mr. Philip J. Gillen and the late Mr. Gillen, Saturday, Aug. 30 at St. Vincent de Paul church, Albany.

The Rev. Paul Cox, assisted by the Rev. Phillip Palladino, celebrated the nuptial Mass and officiated at the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a full length gown of silk organza, fashioned with a Victorian neckline. Bishop sleeves, an empire waist A-line skirt and chapel length carriage train. The gown was enhanced with hand-clipped Chantilly lace at the neckline, and her train was trimmed with lace and Grosgrain ribbon. A Camelot cap of matching lace held her English illusion veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis, mixed yellow and peach pompons, white daisies with streamers of white ribbon, centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Salvatore Sgarlata Jr. was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were the Misses Lisa Coluccio, sister of the bride, and Merylin Ellis, Middleburgh. Flower girl was Miss Sandra Gillen, niece of the bridegroom. Attendants wore gowns of apricot silk chiffon, fashioned with ruffled neckline and ruffled long sleeves. Tiny satin buttons trimmed the cuffs and backs of gowns and apricot satin sashes accented the empire waists of the A-line skirts. Matching Camelot caps with short veils served as their headpieces. The honor attendant carried a white straw basket with peach colored daisies, white carnations, and yellow streamers; the bridesmaids carried baskets of peach colored daisies, white carnations and yellow streamers; and the flower girl, attired in a yellow gown with an apricot sash, carried a basket of yellow daisies, peach pompons, and peach streamers.

WEIGHT-WATCHING

Looking for low calorie foods? One of the bonuses you get from eating cantaloupes and watermelons are worth while amounts of important nutrients at little expense in calories, says Louise K. Breitung, Extension Home Economist. Cantaloupe is particularly rich in Vitamins A and C, two nutrients that are needed daily. One-fourth of a cantaloupe that is 5 inches in diameter provides approximately 65 per cent of the Vitamin A and 50 per cent of the Vitamin C recommended in the daily diet, yet furnishes only 30 calories. Watermelon, too, is a source of these nutrients—one cup provides about 25 per cent of the Vitamin A and Vitamin C, and furnishes 50 calories.

Seek Signs of Quality: Cantaloupes are harvested when they are firm-mature so that they can withstand the long distance shipment to eastern markets. This means that their sweetness has been fully developed but their flesh should be allowed to ripen further. A mature melon has no stem and a smooth, rounded, shallow depression in the stem end of the melon. The netting covering the skin should be coarse, corky, and greyish, and the background color of the melon should be yellowish. Buy melons a few days before you plan to use them to allow them to ripen at room temperature until they feel springy when pressed gently and have lots of aroma. Color is the best key to ripeness in watermelons. A yellowish underside is a good sign of ripeness in the whole melon. Other signs are a firm, bright red flesh that is free from white streaks and dark brown or black seeds in the cut melon. Markets will often sell cut portions of a watermelon. This gives the shoppers a better opportunity to judge the ripeness and quality of the melon. Also, if you don't have refrigerator storage space or your family can't eat up a large whole watermelon this may be the way to purchase this fruit.

Incidentally, you can freeze cantaloupes or watermelon, if you want to have a little "summer" next winter. Cut melon into balls or one-half to three-quarter inch cubes. Pack in light syrup (2 cups of sugar to 1 quart of water). When ready to use, only partially thaw. Serve while a few ice crystals remain in the fruit. Melon that is thoroughly thawed is flabby.

Try a Melon Ball Cocktail. Make balls or cubes of watermelon, cantaloupe, and honeydew melon (combination of balls and cubes adds interest). Fill sherbert glasses with melon and drip lime or lemon juice over them. Chill and serve garnished with a mint sprig.

Community Chest Drive Opens With County Parades Saturday

KINGSTON

This year's Ulster County Community Chest fund campaign will kick-off Saturday, Sept. 13, with parades in Kingston, Saugerties, Woodstock and New Paltz and a drum corps competition in Kingston.

Robert T. Brown, general campaign chairman, who announced the schedule noted parades featuring five bands will start as follows: Woodstock 10 a.m.; Saugerties 11:30 a.m.; New Paltz 3 p.m. and Kingston 7 p.m.

At 8 p.m. at Kingston's Dietz Stadium a drum corps competition and entertainment will be presented. The entire day's activities is free, including the drum corps competition and entertainment. The parades and drum corps competition will feature the Kingston Indians Drum and Bugle Corps and the Troop 12 Indians Drum and Bugle Corps.

The Kingston Indians were organized in 1939 as the Troop 12 Boy Scout Drum Corps, and appeared in the traditional scout uniform. In 1960, they adopted the authentic Woodland Indian costume, and immediately became known as the Troop 12 Indians. As such, they achieved recognition as being one of the most colorful corps in the East. In 1968 the traditional Indian costume was Musical director and bugle instructor is Albert Hallenback; drum instructor is John S. Pratt; and drill instructor and creator of the 1969 field drill is Conrad Keade. The color guard instructor is Bernie Carle.

Henry W. Haltermann, parade director announced that the other participating drum corps will be announced at a later date. The four parades will consist of five bands, over 10 floats, six Community Chest agency units and various well known dignitaries and personalities. William Schiff is associate director.

The 1969-70 Ulster County Community Chest campaign goal is $411,000, the highest in its 14-year history. The chest serves 15 agencies—the Association for Retarded Children, Boys' Club, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Cerebral Palsy, Family Service Center, Gateway Industries, Jewish Community Center, Mental Health, Red Cross, Salvation Army, YMCA, YWCA, USO, and the Ulster County Blood Bank.

Campaign Chairman Brown stated that the activities on September 13th will be one of the highlights of the year in live entertainment in Ulster County. Thousands of people are expected to view the four parades and Drum Corps Competition. Brown urged all residents of Ulster County to arrive at Dietz Stadium early. Seats are available only on a first come-first serve basis. Brown also reminded Ulster County residents that the entire day's activities is free.

Landmark Survey Completed

KINGSTON A survey of all buildings in Ulster County Construction prior to 1850, for the purpose of creating public interest in the rich local heritage and to preserve landmarks was recently completed.

The project was undertaken by the Junior League of Kingston at the request of Ulster County Planning Board.

More than 1,700 structures were catalogued in the survey and this included some of historical or architectural significance which might have fallen into slightly later periods than the 1850 benchmark which had been established.

"A project as elaborate as this requires the help and cooperation of many people," the Junior League observed, and "we wish to thank all those whose knowledge and enthusiasm were of invaluable aid during the survey. We are very grateful for the assistance of Ferrocube Corporation, and P. L. Russell Corp., both Saugerties in assistance in reproducing this valuable information."

Mrs. Avery L. Smith, of the Junior League was Historic Presentation chairman.

Copies of the survey will be presented to the county Community College Library, the Senate House, Ulster County Planning Board, the Library of the Museum, and each town historian will place their copies in their town library or to their township.

It has been requested that the where it will be available to the public.

County Planners Meeting On Sewage Disposal, Water

KINGSTON The $95,000 study was authorized by the county legislature as part of the county's forward thinking approach to future needs and financed entirely by a grant from the New York State Health Department.

Christus Larios of the firm of Brinnier and Larios, engineering consultants, will speak on providing water supply. His firm was retained to conduct an $83,000 study, also financed entirely by the state.

The sewage disposal study was necessary because of federal policy changes which require the investigation of inter-municipal possibilities in developing new sewer systems. Several municipal studies have been underway but have been delayed because of federal requirements.

The county sewer report was undertaken on an interim basis for each community with New Paltz receiving highest priority because of the rapid growth of the state college, located in that village.

The Planning Board symposium will provide the first opportunity to combine all the individual plans into a related system.

Of particular interest will be the results of stream assimilation studies in the report. The amount of treated effluents which can be safely accommodated in Ulster County streams will be a prime limitation on the future development of communities in the county.

Solutions to water supply include the long run use of wells, building new reservoirs, purchasing water from the New York City Water Supply system and pumping water from the Hudson River.

Of particular interest to Ulster are proposals for the taking of one billion gallons of water per day at Hyde Park for the use of the New York Metropolitan area. This proposed taking amounts to the full fresh water flow of the Hudson River during recorded low flows. A 15 member state commission has been appointed to study water resources with both Sen. Jay P. Rolison Jr. and Assemblyman H. Clark Bell having been appointed to the commission. The Brinnier and Larios water report will provide the legislators with information to protect Ulster's water

JUNIOR LEAGUE SURVEY—The Junior League of Kingston recently completed its survey of all landmarks in the county erected prior to 1850 at the special request of Ulster County Planning Board. A total of 1,700 structures were catalogued. Holding copies for distribution here are (L-R) Mrs. Avery L. Smith, Junior League Historic Preservation chairman; Herbert Cutler, superintendent of Senate House and Museum; Kenneth Hasbrouck, associate county historian, and Herbert Hekler, director of Ulster County Planning Board. Statement Rejected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A statement by 42 senators condemning North Vietnam's treatment of prisoners has been rejected by Hanoi's delegates to the Paris talks as slanderous. Sens. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y. and Alan Cranston, D-Calif., said Friday the statement was denounced by a North Vietnamese delegate. Ha Van Lau, Goodell and Cranston said Secretary of State William P. Rogers told them North Vietnam claimed all its prisoners were guilty of "crimes in Vietnam."

TEEN QUEEN — Rose Marie Klespitz, 17, of Aurora, Ill., wears a new crown at the Palisades Amusement Park, N. J. Rose Marie is the new Miss American Teen-Ager for 1969, having topped a field of 44 teen-age beauties in the 10th annual teen age beauty contest. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Latin Gunman Took Flight To 'Most Beautiful' Place

MIAMI (UPI) — A Latin gunman who said he was tired of paying taxes in the United States and wanted to seek freedom in the "most beautiful place in the world," hijacked a New York to San Juan Eastern jetliner with 96 persons aboard Sunday to Cuba.

Stewardess Barbara Rillick said the hijacker slipped into a seat next to her and said: "I want to be diplomatic. I don't want to hurt anybody, but I want to go to Cuba."

"I said 'OK,'" said Miss Rillick, who was marched to the cockpit door which she and another stewardess, Jo Carol Trefel, opened for the sky pirate.

Pilot John Themm said the hijacker, who spoke both English and Spanish fluently, jammed a gun in his back and told him to fly to Cuba.

Radios for Clearance

Themm radioed for clearance for the four-engine stretch jet at 3:30 p.m. and set a course for Havana. The plane had left New York at 1:57 p.m.

Second Officer James M. Hagles said the hijacker talked of finding personal freedom on the Communist island.

"He said he wanted to be free and that by going to Cuba he could find freedom," said Hagles.

"He said he was tired of what he called the state of affairs in the United States and that he was tired of paying taxes and supporting the rich. He told me there will be a revolution in the United States and said he was dedicated to the revolution," recalled the crewman in Miami.

Appears Nervous

Themm said the hijacker appeared nervous at first, later relaxed and at one point left the cabin and had a cigarette with Miss Trefel.

"I'm from Latin America," he told the stewardess when she asked where he was from. He would not discuss his specific nationality.

She told him she wanted to visit Latin America and he replied, "You are going to the most beautiful place in the world tonight."

The hijacking was the 26th American commercial air piracy this year, and the third international flight to be diverted over the weekend.

Saturday 12 men and a woman carrying submachine guns hijacked two Ecuadorian air force transport planes, killing a copilot and forcing one of the planes to fly to Cuba.

Post 1298 Sets Meet

PORT EWEN

Post 1298 Commander Robert Graves will present his program for the year at the monthly meeting of the post, Tuesday night at 7:45 in the Town Hall on Broadway.

Plans will also be finalized for the Legion's annual picnic at the Cabrini School for the children on Saturday. Volunteers are advised to contact child welfare chairman Edgar Maurer for information.

Proposes Study

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., has proposed that the U.S. surgeon general make an extensive study of marijuana to settle conflicting claims about its effects. Pepper said the issue should be settled "as promptly as possible" because of the growing number of legal attacks on federal, state and even Reformed Church may be contacted for further information and reservations.

Mets Face Cubs in Showdown

By United Press International
It's the New York Mets vs. the Chicago Cubs again but with a new twist: the Mets are driving and the Cubs are seeking to brake a losing streak.

The National League's two Eastern Division contenders open a two-game series in New York tonight with the Mets trailing by 2 1/2 games but coming off a 9-3 rout of the Philadelphia Phillies. The Cubs, meanwhile, have lost four in a row, including Sunday's 7-5 shocker to the Pittsburgh Pirates in 11 innings.

The Mets can't take over the lead even by winning both games but two victories or a split probably would mean that the race will go down to the closing days of the season. The Mets will have Jerry Koosman pitching for them in Monday night's opener while the Cubs are countering with Bill Hands.

The Mets, who seem to come up with a new hero every day, scored two runs to take a 5-3 lead in the seventh inning Sunday and then wrapped up the decision with four runs in the eighth. The Cubs were one out from a 5-4 victory when Willie Stargell tied the score with a homer and the Pirates went on to win with runs in the 11th.

Tommie Agee and Art Shamsky homered in the first inning for the Mets and Shamsky drove in the tie-breaking run with a sacrifice fly in the seventh. Ken Boswell's triple drove in the second run of the inning and the Mets added four more runs in the eighth on two-run singles by Agee and Rod Gaspar.

Nolan Ryan shut out the Phillies in the last three innings to raise his record to 51-10.

The San Diego Padres completed a four-game sweep when they defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers, 4-2, the Atlanta Braves downed the Cincinnati Reds, 7-3, the Montreal Expos beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 3-0, and the Houston Astros topped the San Francisco Giants, 7-6, in other NL games.

5, in 14 innings and Seattle squeezed past Kansas City, 7-6, in 10 innings.

Yanks Lose

Eddie Leon and Ray Fosse used only one hit between them to drive in four runs Sunday in pacing the Cleveland Indians to a 7-3 victory over the New York Yankees in Cleveland.

After being held scoreless for 19 innings by New York pitching, the Indians pushed across three runs in the second inning on Fosse's run-scoring single and bases loaded walks to Leon and Larry Brown.

The Yankees tied it in the seventh, only to fall victim to Leon's high bouncer to third, driving in Dave Nelson.

PIGGY-BACK — Ken Boswell, New York Mets' second baseman, rides Richie Allen of the Phils as he throws to first to complete doubleplay during Sunday's game at Shea Stadium. John Callison started off the action by hitting to Bud Harrelson at shortstop. Mets won, 9-3, to move within 2 1/2 games of the Cubs. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Ol' Orville Wins Series

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—Have you noticed? Nobody's laughing at Orville Moody any more.

Lots of folks in pro golf were practically convulsed back in June when plain-speakin' Ol' Orville from Killen, Texas, won the U.S. Open championship for his first pro victory and started talking about how he didn't believe much in practice and things like that.

Now Orville's gone and done it again—with a three-under-par 67 Sunday for a 141 total that gave him the World Series of Golf by two strokes over George Archer. Suddenly his notions about practicing and cross-handed putting are getting more serious attention, for it's obvious Moody is actually a genuine golf star.

And Orville, tucking the $50,000 check for first prize in the World Series into his pocket and heading for Las Vegas to host a military golf tournament today, is saying some pretty serious things.

"I got some ideas about what I'd like to do with that money," he said, tipping his red golf cap over his eyes. His listeners leaned forward to hear the next funny thing Ol' Orville was going to say, like maybe he was planning on doubling the money at those gambling tables they have in Las Vegas.

"I think I'd like to establish a scholarship fund for some deserving young golfers," said Moody. "That's with some of the money. Some I'll give to my sponsors, some to my wife, and some I'll probably invest."

Moody won the World Series in the pouring rain at the Firestone Country Club course by out-lasting Masters champion George Archer of Gilroy, Calif., who had a 69-143; PGA champion Ray Floyd of Lake Havash, Ariz., who had 73-145; and British Open champion Tony Jacklin, who had 72-145.

Archer, who will undergo medical examination this week for the persistent stomach pains that have been bothering him in recent tournaments, earned $15,000 for second place and Floyd and Jacklin were consoled with $6,250 each.

It was a no-nonsense victory round for Moody in which he scorned to "play it safe."

The 35-year-old Moody, who didn't start to carve out a pro some cash sponsors, had three golf career until he ended 12 birdies and 15 pars as he years of Army service 20 overtook Floyd and Jacklin and months ago and found himself then held off Archer.

Hohnhorst and Young Share Seniors Title

WOODSTOCK — Ulster County Seniors Golf Association crowned co-champions Sunday, when Harry Hohnhorst, an 8-time winner and Ted Young, the 1967 champion, tied with 13 hole scores of 62 at Woodstock Country Club.

It was the first time in its 17-year history the UCSGA had declared co-winners in the Class A (70 and over) division.

Hohnhorst, who last won the title in 1963 to end a string of five straight championships, was in the clubhouse with his 62, when Young, who plays out of Twaalfskill, came charging down the last four holes 4-5-3, to wipe out a 3-stroke advantage

Hohnhorst had built up with a 42 on the front nine.

Dr. Grant D. Morse of Saugerties, the defending champion, was locked in a three-way tie with Hohnhorst and Phil Coletti at 42 at the end of nine holes.

No. 11 Key Hole

On the last swing over holes No. 10-11-15-18, Coletti and Dr. Morse needed 21 blows, Hohnhorst 20. But Young parred No. 10 and managed a bogey-5 on the challenging "New No. 2" now 11, a par 4—where Hohnhorst and Dr. Morse took seven and Dr. Morse a six.

Young, who plays out of Twaalfskill, then went one over on No. 16 and got his par 3 on the finishing hole.

Crown Co-Champions

Several co-champions were named in other age groups, as the seniors association departed from previous policy of matching cards to break ties.

Clarence (Dubby) Raichle, the Twaalfskill veteran, led the 93-player field with a 3-over-par 39-34-73 to earn a shingle on the T. J. Rifenburg plaque. He also, of course, led the Class D (55-59) division. Raichle carded the 73 despite five 3-putt greens, as he birdied the par-5 fifth twice and got another bird on the par-4 seventh.

Award to Dr. Holcomb

The 1969 Harold F. King Memorial Award for distinguished service to golf was awarded to Dr. Fred Holcomb Jr., long time member and official at Wiltwyck Country Club.

Dr. Holcomb, who is medical director at IBM, Kingston, organized the first varsity golf team at Kingston High. He was Twaalfskill's first representative in the old City Championship in 1964 against Roy Vogt of Wiltwyck.

Dr. Holcomb is a former president and board member at Wiltwyck and has represented Wiltwyck on the Hudson River Golf Association and Eastern New York Golf Association boards, having served as president of the HRGA. He also made outstanding contributions as a tournament director and publicist, while remaining a top ranking player for many years.

Maynard Was Wrong—Jets Can't Win Without Joe

By United Press International

Don Maynard is dead wrong about the New York Jets.

They CAN'T win without Joe Namath.

Maynard, the Jets' talented flanker, tried very hard to convince the public that the Jets could win without Namath in the lineup. He said so after the Jets whipped the Giants several weeks ago at New Haven, and he said it again last week prior to the Jets' pre-season game with the Dallas Cowboys.

"We can win without Namath," Maynard boasted. "The Baltimore Colts won without Unitas and we can win without Joe."

After watching the Jets in action Saturday night against the Cowboys, however, Maynard's statement appears to have no foundation whatsoever. The Jets, playing without Namath, lost to the Cowboys 25-9 and showed very little offensive spark.

With Babe Parilli and Al Woodall sharing the quarterback duties, the Jets rolled up only 136 yards in total offense and managed only three first downs—all in the first quarter. Twice they got inside the 10-yard line but each time had to settle for a field goal by Jim Turner.

Namath, who didn't suit up because of a blood clot in his left leg, instead watched helplessly from the sidelines as rookie Roger Staubach guided the Cowboys to victory. Staubach, a former Heisman Trophy winner from Navy, replaced Craig Morton at quarterback in the second quarter when Morton suffered a dislocated index finger and promptly guided the Cowboys on a 76-yard touchdown drive. The promising rookie connected on 10 of 16 passes, for 160 yards and scrambled 17 yards for a touchdown himself before leaving the game midway in the third period after being shaken up.

It was a rough game for both sides as five Jets players were injured, though none seriously. Linebacker Al Atkinson (bruised knee), guard Randy Rasmussen (bruised shoulder), cornerback Randy Beverly (pulled groin muscle), running back Lee White (bruised knee) and split end George Sauer (concussion) all needed medical treatment but are expected to be back in action next weekend when the Jets open defense of their American Football League championship against the Buffalo Bills in Buffalo.

In other pre-season games Saturday night, Los Angeles overwhelmed Buffalo, 50-20. Green Bay topped Pittsburgh, 31-19. Cleveland beat Washington, 20-10. Minnesota edged New York, 28-27. Detroit nipped Philadelphia, 23-21. Kansas City defeated Atlanta, 14-10. Cincinnati tripped Denver, 13-11. Houston crushed New Orleans, 30-14. and Miami blanked Boston, 13-0. In one Sunday contest St. Louis trimmed San Francisco, 21-10.

A crowd of 69,904 turned out in Los Angeles to watch Buffalo's O. J. Simpson make his pro debut on his old stomping grounds, but Rams' quarterback Roman Gabriel stole the show from Simpson. Gabriel scored three touchdowns and engineered several others while Simpson was held to 20 yards in seven carries by the Rams' strong defensive unit.

Travis Williams sparked

Green Bay's victory with two touchdowns runs; Bill Nelsen's tackle Curley Culp's six-yard 37 yards with a recovered 15-yard scoring pass to Gary Collins provided Cleveland with its go-ahead score and Bill Brown scored two "Ds" as Minnesota edged the Giants. Trumpy provided Cincinnati's victory and Charlie Johnson passed for two touchdowns and ran for a third as St. Louis beat San Francisco.

touchdown and Miller Farr ran 37 yards with a recovered fumble to highlight Houston's triumph; quarterback Bob Griese completed nine passes in a row at one point to engineer Miami's victory and Charlie Johnson passed for two touchdowns and ran for a third as St. Louis beat San Francisco.

Ziegler Likes the Glory But He'd Like Money, Too

DETROIT (UPI)—Just one sweet ingredient was missing from Larry Ziegler's first PGA golf tournament victory formula—the money.

Ziegler shot a record 64 Sunday but needed a birdie on the second hole of a sudden-death playoff because Homero Blancas made his last shot of a 65 a 55-foot into-the-hole chip shot. The two had eight under-par 262 totals.

But when the 30-year-old resident of Bonne Terre, Mo., stepped up to get his $20,000 first prize, officials of the first—and likely last—$100,000 Michigan Golf Classic told him there was a slight problem.

"Receipts at this time are insufficient to write checks for the prize fund. Payment must be deferred until all of our receivables are in," read a note handed by an MGC official to George Walsh, PGA tournament supervisor and lone pro golf representative attending the "classic."

"Whether or when we will receive our funds, I can't say," Walsh said. "Both the MGC and PGA are seeking legal counsel."

It was the "first time in history that this has happened," Walsh said. "At least to my knowledge."

It is likely that before the PGA tour evolved into what it is today, some of the lesser tournaments in existence during the time of Walter Hagen's early years may have been "you get paid if you can catch me" affairs.

Just where is the money?

A curt "No comment to make" is all Marshall Chambers, MGC tournament director, would say. He said he was just a "paid employee." MGC tournament officials were not reachable for comment.

A PGA rule instituted this year requires all tournaments to put prize monies in escrow, but "whether this was done in this case, I can't say," Walsh said.

Only about 500 fans combined showed up for the first two days of the tournament over Shenandoah Golf and Country Club's par 70 course. About 3,000 came out for the third round and perhaps 5,000 trekked around the 6,708 yards for the final round. The shortage of spectators was due mainly to the fact that only three of the top 20 money winner showed up to play.

At a maximum of $5 a head, plus the little over $8,000 in player qualification and entry fees turned over, the total of $50,000 is a bit short of the $100,000 plus expenses in running the affair.

The players were told there would be no payment when the tournament ended, and "they accepted it graciously," Walsh said.

Ziegler fashioned rounds of 72-70-66-64—272 plus his eight overtime strokes to capture the phantom first prize of $20,000. He sank a four-foot birdie putt to close out the struggle.

Blancas, 31, Houston, Tex., called his 55-foot chip to tie on the last hole "one of those minor miracles." But it was the same par-5, 511-yard second hole on which he sank a 35-foot putt for an eagle during his final day which proved his undoing in the playoff.

Blancas, who hasn't won since 1966, put his first shot a foot away from a casual beer-drinking spectator on a rock in the woods. He then hit a five-wood onto the fairway and his chip shot missed the green, forcing him to settle for another chip plus two putts.

The driving finish by the two over Shenandoah's splochy fairways and velvety greens pushed a fine pair of 67s by J.C. Snead, of the golfing Sneads from Hot Springs, Va., and Phil Rodgers, La Jolla, Calif., to settle for a third-place tie with seven-under 273s.

Another shot back was the foursome of Larry Hinson, Douglas, Ga., the third round leader who had a 69; Mike Hill of Jackson, Mich., who had a final round 67; Cass Jawor, Dearborn, Mich., who had a 66 playing with Ziegler, and first round co-leader Grier Jones, Freeport, B.B.I., 29-5-66.

The "consolation" for Blancas was $11,400. So cheer up, Homero, you "saved" $8,600 by not finishing first.

Another Mark For the Pride

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Harness race driver Stanley Dancer, who drove Nevele Pride to his second world record in a week Saturday at Saratoga Raceway, said he thinks the mark probably will stand longer than the one at Indianapolis six days earlier.

The horse covered the mile distance on the half mile racing oval at Saratoga in 1:56 4/5 to finish the $15,000 special event 27 1/2 lengths ahead of Le Chant. At the Indiana State Fair grounds, Nevele Pride finished in 1:54 4/5 on a mile track.

The previous trotting record on the half-mile circuit was set in 1966 at Yonkers Raceway by Speedy Rodney in 1:58 3/5.

Elsewhere in the state harness picture, Overall lengthened his winning streak to 16 races by winning the $50,000 1 1/4-mile National Pacing Derby at Roosevelt Raceway in 2:33.

Timrick won the $18,500 New York Sire Stakes for 3-year-old trotters in 2:08, finishing more than three lengths ahead of Roan Torrence.

The $9,000 feature at Vernon Downs was won by Another Time in 2:04 1/5, one length ahead of Two Demand.

We don't have to start from scratch each year.

We've been making the same basic VW for so long now, you'd think we'd be bored with the whole thing.

But the fact is, we're still learning. For no matter how perfect we think one year's model is, there's always an engineer who wants to make it more perfect.

You see, at the Volkswagen factory we spend 100% of our time making our car work better and 0% making it look better.

Any change is an improvement. And when we do make new parts we try to make them fit older models. So there's nothing to stop a Volkswagen from running forever.

(Which may explain why Volkswagens are worth so much at trade-in time.)

Starting from scratch each year can get in the way of all that.

Just when they've ironed out the kinks in the current model, they have to face the kinks in the next.

We'll never understand all the hoopla over the "big changes" for next year's models.

Weren't they proud of this year's?

Spartan Pools Capture Saugerties Title

CYRANO? — No, it's John Newcombe of Australia getting a good look at the ball, as he prepares to whack it during semi-final match with fellow countryman Tony Roche in the semi-finals of the U. S. Open Tennis Championship at Forest Hills. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

SAUGERTIES the champ's playing manager, Spartan Pools romped through a doubleheader with a 12-1 "stopper" over Campbell's and a 12-3 drubbing of Michaels to wrap up the championship of the Yankee Division in the Saugerties Softball League Friday night. The Spartans finished the season with a 12-2 mark.

Actually, the Poolmen only needed the win in the first game to take the title, and were willing to let the second game with runner-up Michael's Barbers, go. But, according to the champ's playing manager, Jim Tremper, Nick Berardi and Mike Derrenbacher shared the hitter's spotlight for the winners. Tremper, the league's RBI champ, had two-for-two. Berardi went three-for-three and Derrenbacher chipped in with two-for-two.

Tremper should be quite thankful that Manager Amato gave into the wishes of the crowd and the opponents to play the second game as he wrapped up the ribby title in this tilt. "Jolting" John came up with a single, double and a homer, going three-for-three in the second game, icing the crown with a double in his last at bat. Amato and winning pitcher George Norton also had doubles for the Poolmen.

Norton's win was his fourth of the season against one loss. Mouse Wolven was the losing pitcher, but struck out nine to run his K-total to 101, best in the league and one ahead of his record 100 last year, setting a new mark in that department. Stokes and Norton finished the season with the lowest earned run averages. Stokes led the league at 0.30 and Norton was second at 0.42.

Magic No. 1 for Laver

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI)—The magic number is one for Australia's Rod Laver in his fantastic bid for a second Grand Slam but today he's facing a true believer—Tony Roche.

Roche, a 24-year-old Australian pro, believes in the powers of the new copper bracelet he wears has helped cure his ailing racket arm. He's a believer in the hex he holds on the 31-year-old Laver—52 this year, 64 for his career. And he believes he's the man who can stop Laver's bid for the slam of the world's great opens—Australian, French, Wimbledon and the United States.

WINNING FORM — Australian Tony Roche shows the form that put him into the U. S. Open Tennis Championship finals, scheduled for today against Rod Laver, also of Australia. Roche defeated another Australian, John Newcombe yesterday, 3-6, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, and 8-6. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

In an all-Australian, all-lefthanded final for the $16,000 men's singles prize in the U.S. Open tennis championships, those two stylish professionals from Down Under are scheduled to begin their battle on the center court at noon today —13 days after the rain-plagued tournament began.

"My chances are good if I'm serving well," says Roche. "I suppose my left handed serve does come on him a bit. That's an edge some of the other players don't have."

But Laver, who already has won more than $90,000 this year, feels he has an edge, too. "Tony has played for three straight days," said Rod, who won the big four titles when they were strictly for amateurs in 1962. "I should think I'd be the fresher."

Margaret Smith Court of Australia, a 27-year-old amazon who has won just about everything in sight this year except Wimbledon, won the women's title and a $6,000 check by trouncing Nancy Richey of San Angelo, Tex., Sunday before a near-capacity crowd including Vice President Spiro Agnew. The match went 6-2, 6-2 in just 50 minutes.

Then Laver came on the center court for six minutes of faults in the match, 10 by games from defending champion Arthur Ashe to complete anyone, I'd rather lose to semi-final victory at 8-6, 6-3, 14 Tony," said Newcombe, who 12. They were halted at 12:12 in lost to Laver in the Wimbledon third set when darkness fell final. "He has a good chance on Saturday, against Rod. I don't think Laver likes to play left-handers."

Roche gained the final by downing his buddy and doubles partner, Aussie John New-winning streak, starting with combe, 3-6, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, 8-6, Wimbledon and running through when Newcombe, tiring on the six matches here. The last time heavy courts, lost his concen he lost was to Newcombe in the tration at the finish and double-London grass courts champion faulted on three of the last four ships at the Queens Club, a points. There were 18 double Wimbledon tuneup.

Postal Tossers Cancel Freeman

KINGSTON A delegation of Freeman "All Stars" were soundly trounced by a post office team at Loughran Park on Saturday afternoon by a score of 15-3. It was a softball game.

The "stars", led by Don Koeppen, jumped off to a 2-0 lead in the first inning on doubles by Hugh Reynolds and Herm Sickler and a single by Harold Miller. Post Office pitcher Bob Finch shut the door after that, allowing only a long home run by Don Kaminski in the bottom of the sixth.

The Post Office, lead by Jed Dunn, Jack Niles and Burt Lochterman, struck for six runs in the top of the second and put the game out of reach. Niles homered in the big inning and Bob Hughes chipped in with a double.

Finch, a veteran of the City Slow Pitch League, got the win. Mike Ross took the loss for the Freeman "Stars."

Dear Abby

Sex Taught in School?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1969 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: We were surprised and disappointed to learn that you approve of sex education in the schools. When did you change your mind?

Not too long ago you told a couple of high school students who wanted to study a marriage manual together, "You don't need to study the violin two years before you're able to practice."

Isn't that what sex education in school is?

MR. AND MRS. B.: No! Sex education in the schools deals with animal and human reproduction, personal hygiene, health, including the seriousness of venereal disease, etc. Marriage manuals deal with the "physical" side of marriage, giving explicit instruction in sexual behavior. This, I agree, has no place in our schools, and is NOT taught there, contrary to what you may have been led to believe!

DEAR ABBY: How can an intelligent woman like you be FOR sex education in the schools? Why, I heard that one teacher got so carried away while conducting a sex education lecture that she completely DISROBED in front of the class!

In another school, the teacher herded the whole class into a dark closet and told them to "feel" each other!

I could tell you much more, but you wouldn't believe it.

HORRIFIED IN MELROSE, FLA.

DEAR HORRIFIED: I'm sure I wouldn't. And I don't believe the above incidents ever happened either. I have heard all these wild tales (and more) but have been unable to locate the teachers who supposedly did the above, the schools in which these incidents were supposed to have occurred, or any of the children who were actually present.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for your sensible statement concerning sex education. From my observation, I must conclude that those who equate sex education with smut—and even communism—are the ones who insist that this subject be left in the hands of parents.

On the other hand, I have a friend who is a physician, clearly qualified to handle the subject of "sex." Yet, when the time came to tell his own son the "facts of life," he was so completely mystified by it all and failed to grasp the content of his father's message. The boy later learned about sex in the traditional alley, as do some 80 percent of our youngsters.

One might also point out that most parents would be capable of teaching their children reading, writing, and other subjects, but for some reason, when it comes to "sex," trained teachers seem to produce much better results.

"BIRDS AND BEES"

DEAR ABBY: I think you are all wrong to say that sex education in schools is okay. During school years children should concentrate on reading, writing, and arithmetic. And in their spare time they should think about dolls, flying kites, and baseball.

I heard that a school in southern California tried sex education 10 years ago and they had to stop it because over half the girls in the senior class dropped out because they were pregnant. If so, I will publicly apologize.

AGAINST SEX EDUCATION
DEAR AGAINST: Can you provide me with the NAME of that high school in southern California—and proof that over half the girls in the senior class dropped out because they were pregnant? If so, I will publicly apologize.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

TEEN FORUM

A TRAMP—(Q.) Last week I went to a party. The hostess's father caught me kissing my boy friend. We were not doing anything immodest, but he called me a tramp. Do you think he was right? I am 13 and I think I am a nice girl and not a tramp—whatever a tramp is.—He Called Me a Tramp in Texas.

(A.) Your friend's father went quite a bit too far in calling you a tramp.

But you were out of line in (1) Being overaffectionate at party time in public, both of which are in poor taste, and (2) Being too free with a boy too early in life. A girl 12 or 13 who is too free with her kisses can get a bad reputation. If the girl keeps on being too free with too many boys in too many ways she can earn the name of a tramp.

A tramp is a girl or a woman who doesn't much care what she does or with whom she does it.

GIRL BEATER: (Q.) The boy I go with beats me. At first he hit me only once in a while. Now it is regular. I am afraid of him but I love him so much I don't want to leave him. A friend of mine urged me to tell his parents but I don't want to. I really need your help and advice.—M. in Massachusetts.

(A.) Talking with his parents is not the answer. The only answer is to leave him.

A boy who loses control once or twice and hits a girl and then is sorry may change. But a boy who beats on a girl again and again is not likely to turn into a kind and loving boy friend or husband. Leave him now and don't look back.

(Want personal answers to your questions? Write to Jean Adams, Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Oswald: "Victor Mollo's book, 'How Good Is Your Bridge?', is a series of problems in play. Most of these problems occur at trick one or two and illustrate the value of thinking through before getting started with your play."

Jim: "Here's one that every declarer should know but that most declarers go wrong on. We aren't concerned with the merits of the bidding. South is in three no-trump after a spade overcall by East. West opens the nine of spades and it is up to South to play from dummy."

Oswald: "If the 10 of spades is played, East covers with the jack. If the seven is played, at you most any evening."

It's In The Stars

("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY SEPTEMBER 9, 1969

NEWS SPOTLIGHT: What appeared a generous act backfires. Loopholes are discovered and a general air of dissatisfaction replaces glee. Money proposition appears to be involved.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Pressure indicated. You are presented with challenge. Promise made should be fulfilled—but could crack budget. Stress ability to handle responsibility. Don't duck major issue.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): What appears solid may be the opposite. Know this and have alternatives at hand. You are finishing a project. Look ahead, not backward. Reach agreement with mate, partner.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Avoid trying to force issues. Be yourself. Trying to create erroneous impression saps your emotional vitality. One you meet today represents an exciting challenge.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You may have insight which results in profit. Don't sell your short. Many will be offering pessimistic advice. Key is to do what you feel is right. Follow through.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): What appears solid may be temporary. Means be ready for quick changes. Travel could be involved. Your personality continues dominant. But try to be diplomatic—not arrogant.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You may be slightly impatient. You know what you want to do—but there is red tape. Key is to follow instructions in creative, intelligent manner. That's the winning way.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): In efforts to please, you could overreact. Best to be moderate, especially where expenditures are concerned. Avoid acting on impulse. Give logic logical time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Some will promise you anything today. Key is to separate reality from wishful thinking. Your family, those who really care take more conservative course. Know this—respond accordingly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Play waiting game. Listen attentively, but don't commit yourself. Maintain air of mystery. This soon becomes akin to glamor. You gain if discreet. Solid offer is due.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Some friends are confused. Your own common sense should direct actions, motives. Money, contracts, accounts are spotlighted. Don't rush. Finances need special review.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Do plenty of listening. But don't try to make sense of everything you hear. Some, especially those in authority, are not sure of themselves. Be diplomatic. Also be ready for quick changes.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You don't get everything you want—but you do get a new start. Stress independence, but sharpen sense of timing. Accent on how you accomplish basic task.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you draw people to you with their problems. Many lean on you for aid—but are not so quick to return favors. By October, your financial footing will be more solid.

Stanley Myron: TV the Key

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
HOLLYWOOD (DAP) — Stanley Myron Handelman, who has parlayed a splendid Brooklyn accent, a New York cabdriver's hat and a deep insecurity into a fine career, just hopes he will be discovered some more.

During the past two summers, he has been occupied by Dean Martin's summer replacement show on NBC. As a result, he has been signed for increasingly frequent guest shots on the parent winter show.

"That," says Stanley Myron Handelman earnestly, "is where it counts."

Stanley was dispensing his individual style of humor—he's always the loser, but with a jaunty air that shows he doesn't know it—in an airless Greenwich Village coffee house for $8 a night in 1962 when he had his first big chance: A spot on a summer revival of "Talent Scouts."

"That was great," said Stanley sadly, "and it was even followed by a break on a Sullivan show. Then nothing happened."

He went back to the one-night dates, the Catskill resorts, the small night clubs. Then Merv Griffin discovered him. Although the pay was low, the exposure was great and his extra TV career picked up. Stanley decided, however, that the only place for an ambitious young comic was Hollywood.

"Nobody seemed to care, so I finally ran an ad in 'Daily Variety' figuring if an ad had gotten Bette Davis some work, it might help me. The producer of Martin's show saw it, looked at me on a Merv Griffin show and hired me."

By the time the current series, "The Goldiggers," is finished, Stanley will be playing the best rooms in Las Vegas and New York.

"Today the only real way to get recognition and big money is through television," he said. "Before the summer shows I was getting, tops, $750 a week when I worked. Now I can show for $10,000."

Handelman's low-key style develops slowly and much of the time he permits the audience to anticipate, with delicious dread, his punchlines.

"Like I tell them how I've just read that to be successful in dealings with people you have to say something about the other person that will make a deep impression," he explained.

"I tell them how I was looking for this job and when the man started to interview me, I was going to make a big impression. So I started the interview by saying, 'I see that you're bald.' The audience usually screams —see, they identify."

ABC skipped a rerun of "The Flying Nun" last week to give a half-hour sampling of the cartoon shows that will fill its Saturday morning hours.

The shows seem to be the standard mix of music with animal and human characters in wildly exaggerated situations that children, presumably, know is all in fun.

"The Cattanooga Cats" is a musical cartoon with a portion devoted to the pursuit of a fast-riding mouse on a motorcycle by a bumbling cat. Another, about auto racing, is located on a track. Still another is an adventure series about two high-flying boys and their father. The cartoon villains are more amusing and malodorous than evil, and virtue triumphs easily.

There is no ring particularly scary—or novel—in the assortment, but they probably will keep the little ones quiet if any-one wants to sleep late.

Patterns Urges Priority On the Minnewaska Land

MINNEWASKA — The state is being urged to give top priority to acquiring between 5,000 and 7,000 acres of the Minnewaska Resort property in Ulster County for a public park.

The plea comes from Mid-Hudson Patterns for Progress, one of many organizations interested in the future of the 10,500-acre preserve. Patterns, a seven-county citizens regional planning and development corporation, has made its recommendation in its membership newsletter.

The future of the Minnewaska Resort property, of concern to conservationists, real estate men and public officials received wide attention this week when the New York Times published a story in its Saturday edition describing the land, its potential and the potentially interested.

Earlier Freeman Story
Earlier this year The Freeman also told of the necessity for action with regard to the future of the area, in view of the fact that the Minnewaska Resort property is facing the auction block with its owners, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth B. Phillips too far in debt to sustain their ownership unless some of the acreage is sold off.

When word went out that some of the land was for sale, developers, conservationists and legislators indicated interest. Meanwhile, the banks involved, sensing the value in careful and considered planning, have held off graciously until a mutually satisfactory plan can be conceived.

Patterns' newsletter is devoted to a detailed exposition of the importance of the Minnewaska property to a much larger conservation effort being advanced by Pattern and other groups—setting aside a total of 22,000 acres in the Shawangunk Mountains of Ulster County as public open space to help meet the recreational needs of rapidly growing populations in the Mid-Hudson and the greater New York metropolitan area, and also as a means of structuring future regional development.

Includes Resort

This larger area, which would be retained under a combination of both public and private ownership, includes the entire Minnewaska Resort, some 10,500 acres located about 10 miles northwest of New Paltz, the adjoining Mohonk Lake Resort, some 7,500 acres, and to the south, the 4,500-acre Sam Point area, owned by the Village of Ellenville and presently leased to Ice Cave Mountain, Inc. This parcel also has been registered as a national landmark by the U. S. Park Service.

Pattern is recommending specifically that the state purchase Minnewaska for a public park to reinforce conservation efforts already underway in the Shawangunks.

The Smiley family, owners of Mohonk Lake, have created a non-profit open space trust into which they plan to transfer 6,000 acres of their property, thereby creating a permanent open space, which will be available to the public for recreation, conservation and a general appreciation of nature.

Both Minnewaska and Mohonk, in fact, were founded by members of the Smiley family—Mohonk in 1869, and Minnewaska, a decade later. Over the years, the Smileys, as well as Minnewaska's present owners have followed a policy of land stewardship, developing the property only to the degree that it would be self-sustaining, and keeping it as much as possible in its natural state.

To remain competitive in the resort business, Phillips and his wife plan to enlarge and improve the resort's major facilities, financing these improvements from the sale of sections of the property, including the Lake Awosting area, to public agencies, private developers for vacation home sites, or conservation organizations.

Phillips has emphasized, however, that he is being highly selective in choosing prospective buyers — "not wanting to sell to anyone 'who would tear this mountain apart'—and that

Aux. Police Inspection

KINGSTON — Regular uniform inspection will be conducted tonight during the opening meeting of the Kingston Ulster County CD Auxiliary Police at the Moose Lodge, 82 Prince Street, at 7:30 o'clock.

Any male, 18 or over, interested in Auxiliary Police work, is invited.

a public park would be a good use for the Lake Awosting area.

In mid-July, Pattern and the Regional Plan Association of New York, sponsored a field trip of Minnewaska, acquainting some 40 high ranking federal, state and local officials, plus members of conservation organizations, with the beauty of the Lake Awosting area and the need to preserve it.

According to C. David Locks, president of Pattern, the Minnewaska resort property has, in effect, functioned as an informal public park over the years for both residents of the Mid-Hudson and the greater New York metropolitan area.

INTRODUCING... A REVOLUTIONARY NEW COLOR TV SYSTEM
ZENITH CHROMACOLOR

Paltz Mulls Restaurant Plans

By BRUCE KAUFMAN

NEW PALTZ — Plans which call for the construction of a modern "drive through" restaurant are currently being considered by the Village of New Paltz Planning Board.

If approved the proposed restaurant will be the second eating establishment under construction in this quickly growing southern Ulster community.

The restaurant, which would be located on the corners of Main Street and South Manheim Boulevard, will be one of a national chain of Jack-in-a-Box "drive through" restaurants, which originated on the West Coast but have, in recent years, established in suburban eastern communities.

It is just this concern about "creeping suburbanism" which the Village Planning Board will be thinking about as they study the plans for the restaurant.

The application was presented to the Planning Board at its recent regular monthly meeting by Attorney Philip Shunk on behalf of Checkerboard Properties, Inc., a subsidiary of Purina-Ralston Corp.

The plans show a drive-in entrance with a telephone arrangement for ordering. The car would then proceed to a window on the other side of the structure and pick up the order.

After receiving the plans the board decided to consider the matter further and agreed to notify Shunk, in writing, as soon as possible.

Dutchess Dems Slate Burns For Millbrook Talk on 20th

MILLBROOK — New York State Democratic chairman John J. Burns will be the guest of honor at a Dutchess County Democratic Committee cocktail party and reception Sept. 20 from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Millbrook Manor.

County Democratic Chairman Glenn Van Bramer said, "It is a distinct honor to have our state chairman attend our annual fund raising and social function."

Chairman Burns was elected

Mayor of Binghamton in 1957 and was reelected in 1961 for a second four year term by the largest margin in the history of the city.

He served as Senator Robert F. Kennedy's upstate campaign manager in 1964 and was elected State Democratic Chairman in 1965 and reelected in 1968 unanimously.

Burns ran for Lieutenant Governor with Robert Morganthau in 1962.
